House Asks Action To Help Children

Three to Five Million Mentally Slow; Cause Is Declared to Be Mystery

Washington, March 18 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today urged an all-out attack on "the great and growing problem" of mentally retarded children.

It recommended a $750,000 allotment to launch a research program in this field and directed the Office of Education to present "a real program" next year.

The funds were contained in a $2,337,522,261 appropriation bill to finance the Labor Department, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and related agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1.

In a report written by Rep. Fogarty (D-R.I.), the committee said from three to five million children are in the "mentally retarded" category "yet the problem has gone almost unnoticed by the leaders in education and in medical research."

There is only "the haziest notion" of what causes the problem or how many children could be helped through a planned program, the committee said.

The research will be conducted by the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness and the National Mental Health Institute. The budgets of these two agencies were hiked $500,000 and $250,000, respectively, to foot the bill. The office of education was told to develop an educational program with available funds.

On the bill as a whole, the committee cut 3.8 per cent from the $2,432,148,861 requested by President Eisenhower. However, the committee claimed the reduction was closer to 10 per cent. It noted that $1,400,000,000 of the money is for grants to states for public assistance in accordance with binding legal pledges.

THE $94,626,600 cut in budget requests was distributed this way:

To Solicit School Bids At Katrine

Approval Given On January 7

Specifications for a new kindergarten through Grade 6 school in Union Free School District No. 4, town of Ulster, have been completed and bids will be solicited within the next two weeks, the district board has announced.

Union Free District No. 4 comprises the Lake Katrine area and lies to the north of District No. 8, which tomorrow is voting on a proposition to authorize building of another K through 6 school.

Voters in the Lake Katrine district approved propositions for purchase of land and erection of an elementary school on January 7 by a vote of 123 to 37. Total maximum expenditure was set at $396,000.

Specifications for the school building were prepared by Shirley and LeShaw, architects, of New York. Plans and specifications are available to prospective bidders at the offices of Saccoman and DiDonna, attorneys, at 241 Wall street, Kingston.

ALSO ANNOUNCED today was the appointment of Edward R. Crosby as teaching principal of the new school. A native of Kingston, Crosby graduated from Kingston High School in 1943, served in World War 2 and the Korean conflict, graduated from New Paltz State Teachers College in 1949 and received his master's degree in 1954 from Columbia University.

For the past five years, Crosby has been teaching at Rhinebeck Central School. He had also taught junior high grades at the Racliff Jansen Central School at Hillsdale.

The school will be erected on a 25-acre site to be purchased from Copeland E. and Ruth P. Gates. An option is now held on the site and the transfer is expected to take place in a few days. Bernard A. Culloton is attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Gates.

The proposed building will have seven classrooms, a combination auditorium and gymnasium seating 600.

THE OLD LAKE KATRINE school house which stands on an adjoining one-acre tract will be disposed of as directed by the voters of the district, who will vote on that proposition at a school meeting to be held as soon as practicable. The present building has been in operation since about 1870, when it was rebuilt after a fire which destroyed the entire prior structure.

THE BOARD of Education has pointed out that since 1952 the kindergarten through Grade 6 school population of the district has doubled. The present enrollment is 106 pupils. This past year, kindergarten and first grade pupils were moved to an adjoining leased building, and the upper classes were sent to Kingston city schools.

Members of the Board of Education are Parran A. Gates, Lester V. Felton and Joseph J. Benjamin. Members of the building committee are Daniel Morehouse, Albert J. Mason, Arthur J. Hartigan, Louis A. DiDonna, and members of the board. DiDonna serves as counsel to the board.

Bonn Gives Approval To Arms

Prospects for Full Okay Brighter

Bonn, Germany, March 18 (AP)—The Bonn Parliament completed its approval of West German rearmament today. It was the ninth of the 15 national legislatures which must approve before Germans can put on western uniforms.

Prospects of West German rearmament improved still more as a Socialist threat of court action appeared failing. Socialist sources said they doubted they could get enough members of Parliament to sign a petition bringing the controversial Saar agreement with France before the federal constitutional court.

THE WEST GERMAN Bundesrat (upper House) cast an overwhelming 29-9 vote today for the key Paris treaty ending the allied occupation and approving rearmament. The Bundestag (lower House) ratified by a similar 2-to-1 vote Feb. 27.

Because no objection was raised, three other Paris pacts were approved in the Bundesrat without a vote. They would permit allied troops to remain in West Germany and admit the Bonn Republic to the seven-nation West European Union and the North Atlantic Treaty organization (NATO).

The final Paris agreement—to put the German-speaking, coal-rich Saar under international control while leaving it linked economically to France—just squeaked through the upper House. The Bundesrat vote was 21-17 paralleling the 263-202 approval in the Bundestag.

Unless the Socialists could follow through on their threat to challenge the Saar accord's constitutionality, the majority was sufficient. Otherwise it might need a two-thirds vote for approval.

THE BUNDESRAT action put the spotlight squarely on France, whose Senate begins debate on the treaties next Wednesday. The French National Assembly approved the pacts Dec. 30. And the final Senate vote is expected next Friday.

Approval also has been given by the Parliaments of Britain, Canada, Greece, Iceland, Italy, Norway, Portugal and Turkey. Legislative action still must come in Belgium, Denmark, Luxembourg. The Netherlands and the United States. Their ratification is considered a certainty once West Germany and France complete the process.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was jubilant at the successful outcome of his long struggle. "This does away with Yalta," he declared, referring to the Big Three conference in February, 1945, which began the allied planning for the occupation of Germany.

President Theodor Heuss was expected to sign the West German ratifications without delay.

The upper House tacked three resolutions on to its approval of rearming.

The (1) demanded four-power talks on reunification of the divided country, (2) emphasized the temporary nature of the Saar agreement and (3) urged removal of all remaining "occupation discriminations" against West Germany.

Accuses Fulbright

Washington, March 18 (AP)—Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) accused Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) face to face today of seeking to "harass the Eisenhower administration and the business of the United States" through the Senate stock market inquiry. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, promptly rejected the charge and told Capehart to stop "attacking the chairman." The clash arose from Fulbright's questioning of General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice about the prices GM fixes for its cars.

Gunman Takes Bank's $1,689

Wurtsboro, March 18 (AP)—A lone gunman walked into a branch of the Sullivan County Trust Co. Thursday, tied up employes and a customer with wire loops he brought with him, and escaped with at least $1,689 in cash.

The robber, described as weighing more than 200 pounds, strolled into the bank, laid a $10 bill on a counter, and asked for change in quarters.

As bank manager Perry Morehouse was making the change, the bandit whipped out a gun and said: "I'm not fooling. Step over and open the door (to the teller's cage."

MOREHOUSE COMPLIED, then was tied up along with the woman bookkeeper and her husband, who had stopped in for a chat.

Then in came Sidney Goldner, a customer, who had some cash for deposit. The robber took an undisclosed amount of cash from Goldner and tied him up, too. The bandit then fled in a car.

State police, whose local barracks are two doors away from the bank, set up road blocks throughout the area but found no trace of the gunman or the car. Authorities said the robber may have hidden the auto in a garage of a summer home in this resort area.

Review Hints at Upset

U. S. Force Must Have Surprised

Washington, March 18 (AP)—The Kremlin must have been surprised in the years after World War 2 at the force with which the United States came to resist expansion in Europe and Asia.

For Marshal Stalin heard directly from President Roosevelt at the Yalta conference that the United States would not keep troops in Europe for more than about two years after the war and did not plan to station troops in Korea at all.

IN RETROSPECT, it appears possible that the secret exchanges of the Yalta meeting may have influenced Soviet strategy for expanding world communism by political maneuver, subversion and military pressure into areas of weakness left by World War 2.

The Yalta papers released by the State Department Wednesday night—and likely to be a subject of intense interest in world capitals for months to come — indicate that Roosevelt based his relations with Stalin during the February 1945 conference on two basic assumptions:

1. What he conceived to be the supreme importance of assuring Russia's entry into the war against Japan after the defeat of Germany in the light of word from his military advisers that such entry was essential.

2. A belief that Russia was approaching the postwar period in the cooperative spirit of an ally with true goodwill, and that Stalin could be trusted and dealt with confidentially.

THUS, FOR EXAMPLE, in secret talks with Stalin, when British Prime Minister Churchill was not present, Roosevelt talked about imposing an international trusteeship upon Indochina. This was against Churchill's interest in reasserting British authority in Burma. Roosevelt also disclosed to Stalin, calling the action "indiscreet," Churchill's plans to build up France into a strong power for British purposes in Europe.

Roosevelt seemed to be less concerned over the crumbling away of the British Empire — which was Churchill's first concern—than he was over getting along with Stalin, assuring Russian action against Japan and completing arrangements for Soviet cooperation in the United Nations.

ACTUALLY, it was to be about two years before the strong partnership which came to hold the line against communism developed fully between Britain and the United States.

The Yalta papers bring to light many little things which diplomats consider indiscretions when practiced internationally. Their very disclosure makes it unlikely that a top level conference on the Yalta pattern will ever be held again.

Churchill, who objected to publication of the documents, was able as the last survivor to have some of his less discreet remarks deleted. Perhaps one or two Roosevelt remarks also were cut out.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, March 18 (AP)—The cash position of the treasury March 15: Balance $3,738,361,888.63; deposits fiscal year July 1 $38,876,166,387.69; withdrawals fiscal year $48,188,715,089.22; total debt $271,836,899,584.67x; gold assets $21,717,280,748.17. x—Includes $510,390,787.05 debt not subject to statutory limit.

Capehart Sees Hurt to Democrats

Vorys Says Parley Chances Killed

Washington, March 18 (AP) — Sen. Capehart (R.-Ind.) said today the Yalta papers "will be very damaging to the Democrats."

He said the newly published documents are filled with political implications which "probably will carry over to the 1956 presidential campaign" but some other legislators, of both political parties, were less positive.

On the international level, Rep. Vorys (R.-Ohio) predicted that the disclosure will kill any chance of American participation in a new Big Three conference with Russia.

VORYS SAID in a separate interview that State Department publication of the 10-year-old record of the Big Three negotiations should have this "profound effect" on future planning:

"It should discourage the people of the United States from wanting to have our leaders take part in any more three or four power secret conferences such as some of our allies are now suggesting."

British Prime Minister Churchill has periodically talked of trying for a new Big Three conference. British Labor party leaders have strongly urged one.

Vorys said disclosure of the Yalta documents probably will produce "a lot of partisan, nonpartisan and bipartisan discussion," but he added: "I don't think it will affect our bipartisan foreign policy because everything has come out before."

SEN. MANSFIELD (D.-Mont.) said some Republicans will undoubtedly "try to use what happened at Yalta for political purposes."

But the Republican party as a whole, he said, "will have to decide whether to place their country or their party first."

Both Mansfield and Sen. Jackson (D.-Wash.) said that, with the benefit of hindsight, it appears obvious that former President Roosevelt "made some mistakes" at Yalta, where he conferred with Churchill and Russian Premier Stalin.

But Mansfield said Roosevelt "was guided to a considerable extent by his military advisers."

As presented to Roosevelt, Mansfield said, the crucial result to be achieved at Yalta was a commitment from Russia to enter the war against Japan and thus cut back an anticipated one million casualties in an assault on the Japanese homeland.

JACKSON SAID Gen. Douglas MacArthur had told him as late as July 1945 that 500,000 American casualties would be the price for knocking Japan to her knees. A month later the atomic bomb dropped on Hirshima threw these estimates far out of focus.

Capehart said the American people must learn "all the horrifying facts" of Yalta, and he added:

"The decisions we made there were very damaging. Now that they have been officially released they show that the Republicans were only telling the terrible truth about Yalta."

CAPEHART SAID publication "will make the Democrats less aggressive in their attacks on President Eisenhower and more docile in following the President's foreign policy."

But Chairman Richards (D.-S.C.) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said the question of whether the Yalta papers will wreck bipartisanship depends on whether the Republicans "attempt to exploit them."

"There is no sign yet that they will do so," Richards said.

Richards said the Yalta papers were "like a skeleton you dig up in a graveyard—it may be more intriguing to imagine what the skeleton is like than to actually see it."

Islands Are Alerted

Pearl Harbor, March 18 (AP)—North Pacific islands from the Aleutians to Guam and Hawaii were alerted against a tidal wave late yesterday because of a submarine earthquake off Siberia's Kamchatka peninsula. The Hawaiian sea frontier lifted the alert after check points in the Aleutians and on Midway reported no danger. On April 1, 1946 a seismic wave kicked up in the Aleutians killed nearly 250 persons in Hawaii and damaged millions of dollars of waterfront property.

State of NY Bank May Have Branch

The State of New York National Bank of Kingston has applied to the state superintendent of banks for permission to open a branch office in the town of Ulster.

Details of a proposed branch building have not been fully developed, according to John H. Saxe, president. The exact location was not revealed.

The State of New York bank is also remodeling the first floor of its main office at 301 Wall street, Kingston, to provide separate space for its special loan department.

George Lowe is architect for the remodeling project, which includes the erection of a mezzanine in the rear of the first floor lobby. Space will be provided for operators of posting machines, a receptionist and an officer of the bank. Direct access will be provided by a stairway leading from the lobby.

IT IS PLANNED to repaint the interior of the main floor upon completion of the project.

The bank, which celebrated its 100th anniversary in 1953, operated from a Fair street site until 1869, when it purchased the red brick building at the corner of Wall and John streets and merged with the First National Bank of Kingston.

On Dec. 17, 1879, the interior of this building was destroyed by fire, but the exterior remained unchanged when the bank was reconstructed. About 1946 the red bank building was replaced by the present granite and limestone banking house. Assets of the bank on Dec. 31, 1954. were $10,954,283.23.

PRESENT OFFICERS of the bank are: John H. Saxe, president; Alex B. Shufeldt, Peter A. Black, vice presidents; Robert C. Murray, cashier and trust officer; Oscar J. Lawatsch, assistant cashier, and Howard A. DeWitt, assistant cashier and assistant trust officer. Directors are A. Raymond Atkins, Peter A. Black, Pratt Boice, Roscoe V. Elsworth, Allan L. Hanstein, Matthew H. Herzog, Stanley J. Matthews, Clifford C. Rose, John H. Saxe, Alex B. Shufeldt and Arthur H. Wicks.

Sailor, Model Are Not Disturbed

Kerrville, Tex., March 18 (AP)—A Texas sailor and an English model today said they plan to go right on "getting acquainted" despite the revelation he's still married to a motorcycle riding Virginia waitress.

The sailor, James Lloyd Parker, 25, admitted he is still legally hitched to Mrs. Frances Mallory Parker, 21, of Norfolk but said they have been separated for months and he understood she was planning to divorce him.

"I don't think Frances will have any affect on my acquaintanceship with Maureen," he said.

"Maureen" is Miss Maureen Tooze, 19, a photographer's model from Arundel, England.

BOTH TALKED with The Associated Press from the ranch home near here of Parker's sister, Mrs. Ruth Le Clere. Miss Tooze is staying there and Parker is on 30-day leave.

Parker, after meeting Miss Tooze last summer while on shore leave in England, persuaded her to visit his sister on their Texas ranch so he could woo her whenever he could get leave.

They emphasized they were merely "getting acquainted," but Parker declared today, "I like her very much." And she said, "I think he's a very nice guy."

Their friendship ran into complications yesterday when Mrs. Frances Mallory Parker came forward in Norfolk after reading newspaper accounts of the romance.

MRS. PARKER SAID, "humph, and maybe not!" to any plans James and Maureen might have to marry. She has a marriage li-

Plan Voted On Arterial Link Here

Senate Expected To Add Consent

A Wicks-Wilson measure aimed at adding a section of Washington avenue, including the viaduct, and Hurley avenue to the city's arterial route system, was passed in the state Assembly and was due for Senate sanction, it was learned today.

Common Council action Feb. 1, asked for addition of the streets to the plan and before that the council authorized Mayor Frederick H. Stang and Corporation Counsel James J. Abernethy to institute proceedings before the State Public Service Commission for an order to eliminate the viaduct.

ADDITION of Hurley avenue as part of Route 209 provides a thruway connection with that route, and including the viaduct section of Washington avenue is expected to open the way for elimination of the viaduct as a traffic bottleneck.

The state's arterial route plan for the city, presented as a preliminary plan to Mayor Stang early last year, made no provision for the viaduct problem nor the inclusion of Hurley avenue as part of the system.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD now that the state public works department is in favor of including the additions as approved by city legislation, and it is expected that approval by the state Legislature, will guarantee the additions and solution of the viaduct problem.

Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson's adopted bill indicated assurance of similar action to State Senator Arthur H. Wicks' measure in the Senate. The latter had received a third reading and, was expected to be passed today.

THE ROUTE plan, as presented here last year, provides for the addition of sections of Broadway, Wurts and McEntee streets to the state-maintained system, and will give the city a spur connecting with the thruway northwest of the city.

Local legislation authorized continued planning based on the preliminary study with the understanding that any phase

Snowstorm Hits New York Area

New York, March 18 (AP)—A late winter storm that is expected to deposit four to five inches of snow in suburban areas hit the New York metropolitan area today.

The snow, which started a few hours before dawn, made highways treacherous and snarled morning rush hour traffic. Many incoming commuters were from minutes to more than a half hour late getting to their offices.

The Automobile Club of New York urged caution on all highways and bridge and tunnel approaches. Sanding crews were out early.

Traffic was slow on Long Island, Queens, Brooklyn and Westchester county highways. Speed limits were reduced from 60 to 35 miles an hour on the New Jersey Turnpike and the Garden State Parkway, also in New Jersey.

Aruba Has Orders to Sail Non-Stop to Red China Port

Helsinki, Finland, March 18 (AP)—The Finnish tanker Aruba plowed through the Indian ocean today, reportedly under orders to sail on with her 13,000-ton consignment of jet fuel for Red China as long as her balky crew continues to work.

A radio message picked up in Colombo, Ceylon, said the tanker's owners had radioed orders to avoid all ports and stay on course as long as the crew remains amenable.

A spokesman for the owners—the Re-Be Shipping Co. of Helsinki—said they had been in contact with the Aruba's captain who said all was calm aboard the tanker.

Earlier today the company had said the ship might call at Colombo tomorrow.

Earlier the Aruba's owners said they had revised plans to send the ship to Red China after her crew refused to sail into "dangerous areas."

The Aruba case gained worldwide attention when U. S. congressmen demanded that the shipment be halted. The Nationalist Chinese warned they would take steps to intercept the Aruba if she headed for the Red mainland.

A spokesman for the Re-Be Company refused today to disclose the Aruba's eventual destination. There has been speculation she might put into an Indonesian port to reload her cargo into other China-destined ships.

The Yalta papers released by the State Department Wednesday night—and likely to be a subject of intense interest in world capitals for months to come — indicate that Roosevelt based his relations with Stalin during the February 1945 conference on two basic assumptions:

1. What he conceived to be the supreme importance of assuring Russia's entry into the war against Japan after the defeat of Germany in the light of word from his military advisers that such entry was essential.

2. A belief that Russia was approaching the postwar period in the cooperative spirit of an ally with true goodwill, and that Stalin could be trusted and dealt with confidentially.

THUS, FOR EXAMPLE, in secret talks with Stalin, when British Prime Minister Churchill was not present, Roosevelt talked about imposing an international trusteeship upon Indochina. This was against Churchill's interest in reasserting British authority in Burma. Roosevelt also disclosed to Stalin, calling the action "indiscreet," Churchill's plans to build up France into a strong power for British purposes in Europe.

Roosevelt seemed to be less concerned over the crumbling away of the British Empire — which was Churchill's first concern—than he was over getting along with Stalin, assuring Russian action against Japan and completing arrangements for Soviet cooperation in the United Nations.

ACTUALLY, it was to be about two years before the strong partnership which came to hold the line against communism developed fully between Britain and the United States.

The Yalta papers bring to light many little things which diplomats consider indiscretions when practiced internationally. Their very disclosure makes it unlikely that a top level conference on the Yalta pattern will ever be held again.

Churchill, who objected to publication of the documents, was able as the last survivor to have some of his less discreet remarks deleted. Perhaps one or two Roosevelt remarks also were cut out.

Treasury Receipts

Capehart Sees Hurt to Democrats

Vorys Says Parley Chances Killed

Washington, March 18 (AP) — Sen. Capehart (R.-Ind.) said today the Yalta papers "will be very damaging to the Democrats."

He said the newly published documents are filled with political implications which "probably will carry over to the 1956 presidential campaign" but some other legislators, of both political parties, were less positive.

On the international level, Rep. Vorys (R.-Ohio) predicted that the disclosure will kill any chance of American participation in a new Big Three conference with Russia.

VORYS SAID in a separate interview that State Department publication of the 10-year-old record of the Big Three negotiations should have this "profound effect" on future planning:

"It should discourage the people of the United States from wanting to have our leaders take part in any more three or four power secret conferences such as some of our allies are now suggesting."

British Prime Minister Churchill has periodically talked of trying for a new Big Three conference. British Labor party leaders have strongly urged one.

Vorys said disclosure of the Yalta documents probably will produce "a lot of partisan, nonpartisan and bipartisan discussion," but he added: "I don't think it will affect our bipartisan foreign policy because everything has come out before."

SEN. MANSFIELD (D.-Mont.) said some Republicans will undoubtedly "try to use what happened at Yalta for political purposes."

But the Republican party as a whole, he said, "will have to decide whether to place their country or their party first."

Both Mansfield and Sen. Jackson (D.-Wash.) said that, with the benefit of hindsight, it appears obvious that former President Roosevelt "made some mistakes" at Yalta, where he conferred with Churchill and Russian Premier Stalin.

But Mansfield said Roosevelt "was guided to a considerable extent by his military advisers."

As presented to Roosevelt, Mansfield said, the crucial result to be achieved at Yalta was a commitment from Russia to enter the war against Japan and thus cut back an anticipated one million casualties in an assault on the Japanese homeland.

JACKSON SAID Gen. Douglas MacArthur had told him as late as July 1945 that 500,000 American casualties would be the price for knocking Japan to her knees. A month later the atomic bomb dropped on Hirshima threw these estimates far out of focus.

Capehart said the American people must learn "all the horrifying facts" of Yalta, and he added:

"The decisions we made there were very damaging. Now that they have been officially released they show that the Republicans were only telling the terrible truth about Yalta."

CAPEHART SAID publication "will make the Democrats less aggressive in their attacks on President Eisenhower and more docile in following the President's foreign policy."

But Chairman Richards (D.-S.C.) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said the question of whether the Yalta papers will wreck bipartisanship depends on whether the Republicans "attempt to exploit them."

"There is no sign yet that they will do so," Richards said.

Richards said the Yalta papers were "like a skeleton you dig up in a graveyard—it may be more intriguing to imagine what the skeleton is like than to actually see it."

Islands Are Alerted

Pearl Harbor, March 18 (AP)—North Pacific islands from the Aleutians to Guam and Hawaii were alerted against a tidal wave late yesterday because of a submarine earthquake off Siberia's Kamchatka peninsula. The Hawaiian sea frontier lifted the alert after check points in the Aleutians and on Midway reported no danger. On April 1, 1946 a seismic wave kicked up in the Aleutians killed nearly 250 persons in Hawaii and damaged millions of dollars of waterfront property.

State of NY Bank May Have Branch

The State of New York National Bank of Kingston has applied to the state superintendent of banks for permission to open a branch office in the town of Ulster.

Details of a proposed branch building have not been fully developed, according to John H. Saxe, president. The exact location was not revealed.

The State of New York bank is also remodeling the first floor of its main office at 301 Wall street, Kingston, to provide separate space for its special loan department.

George Lowe is architect for the remodeling project, which includes the erection of a mezzanine in the rear of the first floor lobby. Space will be provided for operators of posting machines, a receptionist and an officer of the bank. Direct access will be provided by a stairway leading from the lobby.

IT IS PLANNED to repaint the interior of the main floor upon completion of the project.

The bank, which celebrated its 100th anniversary in 1953, operated from a Fair street site until 1869, when it purchased the red brick building at the corner of Wall and John streets and merged with the First National Bank of Kingston.

On Dec. 17, 1879, the interior of this building was destroyed by fire, but the exterior remained unchanged when the bank was reconstructed. About 1946 the red bank building was replaced by the present granite and limestone banking house. Assets of the bank on Dec. 31, 1954, were $10,954,283.23.

PRESENT OFFICERS of the bank are: John H. Saxe, president; Alex B. Shufeldt, Peter A. Black, vice presidents; Robert C. Murray, cashier and trust officer; Oscar J. Lawatsch, assistant cashier, and Howard A. DeWitt, assistant cashier and assistant trust officer. Directors are A. Raymond Atkins, Peter A. Black, Pratt Boice, Roscoe V. Elsworth, Allan L. Hanstein, Matthew H. Herzog, Stanley J. Matthews, Clifford C. Rose, John H. Saxe, Alex B. Shufeldt and Arthur H. Wicks.

Sailor, Model Are Not Disturbed

Kerrville, Tex., March 18 (AP)—A Texas sailor and an English model today said they plan to go right on "getting acquainted" despite the revelation he's still married to a motorcycle riding Virginia waitress.

The sailor, James Lloyd Parker, 25, admitted he is still legally hitched to Mrs. Frances Mallory Parker, 21, of Norfolk but said they have been separated for months and he understood she was planning to divorce him.

"I don't think Frances will have any affect on my acquaintanceship with Maureen," he said.

"Maureen" is Miss Maureen Tooze, 19, a photographer's model from Arundel, England.

BOTH TALKED with The Associated Press from the ranch home near here of Parker's sister, Mrs. Ruth Le Clere. Miss Tooze is staying there and Parker is on 30-day leave.

Parker, after meeting Miss Tooze last summer while on shore leave in England, persuaded her to visit his sister on their Texas ranch so he could woo her whenever he could get leave.

They emphasized they were merely "getting acquainted," but Parker declared today, "I like her very much." And she said, "I think he's a very nice guy."

Their friendship ran into complications yesterday when Mrs. Frances Mallory Parker came forward in Norfolk after reading newspaper accounts of the romance.

MRS. PARKER SAID, "humph, and maybe not!" to any plans James and Maureen might have to marry. She has a marriage li-

Nominations Confirmed

Washington, March 18 (AP)—These nominations for postmasterships in New York state have been confirmed by the Senate: W. Arthur Lewis, Fishers; Florence Thompson, Harriman.

Plan Voted On Arterial Link Here

Senate Expected To Add Consent

A Wicks-Wilson measure aimed at adding a section of Washington avenue, including the viaduct, and Hurley avenue to the city's arterial route system, was passed in the state Assembly and was due for Senate sanction, it was learned today.

Common Council action Feb. 1, asked for addition of the streets to the plan and before that the council authorized Mayor Frederick H. Stang and Corporation Counsel James J. Abernethy to institute proceedings before the State Public Service Commission for an order to eliminate the viaduct.

ADDITION of Hurley avenue as part of Route 209 provides a thruway connection with that route, and including the viaduct section of Washington avenue is expected to open the way for elimination of the viaduct as a traffic bottleneck.

The state's arterial route plan for the city, presented as a preliminary plan to Mayor Stang early last year, made no provision for the viaduct problem nor the inclusion of Hurley avenue as part of the system.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD now that the state public works department is in favor of including the additions as approved by city legislation, and it is expected that approval by the state Legislature, will guarantee the additions and solution of the viaduct problem.

Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson's adopted bill indicated assurance of similar action to State Senator Arthur H. Wicks' measure in the Senate. The latter had received a third reading and was expected to be passed today.

THE ROUTE plan, as presented here last year, provides for the addition of sections of Broadway, Wurts and McEntee streets to the state-maintained system, and will give the city a spur connecting with the thruway northwest of the city.

Local legislation authorized continued planning based on the preliminary study with the understanding that any phase

Aruba Has Orders to Sail Non-Stop to Red China Port

Helsinki, Finland, March 18 (AP)—The Finnish tanker Aruba plowed through the Indian ocean today, reportedly under orders to sail on with her 13,000-ton consignment of jet fuel for Red China as long as her balky crew continues to work.

A radio message picked up in Colombo, Ceylon, said the tanker's owners had radioed orders to avoid all ports and stay on course as long as the crew remains amenable.

A spokesman for the owners—the Re-Be Shipping Co. of Helsinki—said they had been in contact with the Aruba's captain who said all was calm aboard the tanker.

Earlier today the company had said the ship might call at Colombo tomorrow.

Earlier the Aruba's owners said they had revised plans to send the ship to Red China after her crew refused to sail into "dangerous areas."

The Aruba case gained worldwide attention when U. S. congressmen demanded that the shipment be halted. The Nationalist Chinese warned they would take steps to intercept the Aruba if she headed for the Red mainland.

A spokesman for the Re-Be Company refused today to disclose the Aruba's eventual destination. There has been speculation she might put into an Indonesian port to reload her cargo into other China-destined ships.

Memoriam

In remembrance of my dear daughter, Mrs. Pearl Bush Doyle, who departed from me March 18, 1949.

Remembrance of one so dear
Often brings a silent tear,
Thoughts return of things long past,
Time rolls on, but memories last.

MOTHER.

Memoriam

In loving memory of Marion O. Avery who passed away 1 year ago, March 18, 1954.

At home on the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair;
Some day, somewhere, when my task is done,
With joy I shall meet you there.

A LOVING FRIEND.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The more you learn about new-fangled ideas the more often you think that perhaps some old theories are valid after all.

The Ruminator keeps a clutter of books on his bedside reading table, as he likes to roam around in his reading. The current assortment includes a volume of Emerson's Essays, Adams' autobiography, "The Education of Henry Adams," on down to Marquand's recent book, "Sincerely, Willis Wayde," and a new book sent in for review which I haven't had time to get into yet, "Education or Indoctrination," by Mary L. Allen (Caxton).

ANOTHER TINY little book I like to dip into is a digest, you might call it, which discusses Thucydides and his classic history of the Peloponnesian War. It is revealing to read the debates and palaver which preceded the outbreak of hostilities between Athens and Sparta. History hasn't changed. Men talked about war and how to sidestep it by appeasements and "deals" in about the same manner and language, two thousand years ago, as they do now. It tends to keep you from getting all excited about new threats when you realize that neither the world nor the people in it have changed very much. They haven't changed for the better, that's sure, insofar as war is concerned. The method of warfare has, indeed, grown more frightful, with every passing decade. The technological revolution has been an amazing development. But did you ever stop to consider how difficult it would be to win the affirmative side of a debate on the subject: The Airplane Has Been a Benefit and a Blessing to Society?

Let's turn to another subject. Being what my liberal friends term an old fogy (I confess to being a realistic reactionary), I get considerable pleasure and stimulation from older books, while still enjoying new ones like Marquand's.

FOR EXAMPLE, I was particularly struck an evening or so ago with some sentences in Emerson's essay on "Wealth." Perhaps you'll like to refresh your recollection of this wise American. Asserting that "wealth brings with it its checks and balances," Emerson added these remarks which remain valid today, although denied in some quarters:

"The basis of political economy is non-interference. The only safe rule is found in the self-adjusting meter of demand and supply. Do not legislate. Meddle, and you snap the sinews with your sumptuary laws. Give no bounties: make equal laws: secure life and property, and you need not give alms.

"Open the doors to talent and virtue, and they will do themselves justice, and property will not be in bad hands. In a free and just commonwealth, property rushes from the idle and imbecile, to the industrious, brave, and persevering.

"The laws of nature play through trade . . . The level of the sea is not more surely kept, than is the equilibrium of value in society, by the demand and the supply: and artifice or legislation punishes itself, by reactions, gluts, and bankruptcies."

SPACE LIMITS quotations — but perhaps you'll dig out your old volume of Ralph Waldo's Essays and become reacquainted. He wasn't such an old fogy at that! Did you notice, by the way, that Emerson put "demand" first: demand and supply? Usually you see it written supply and demand. Basically, of course, demand is the ruling factor in the equation and comes first.

Notwithstanding all the new-fangled ideas in vogue, the Ruminator believes you can count on it that the Law of Demand and Supply has not been repealed!

Books have a habit of sending you on fascinating haunts: Emerson, in the above, to old and new economic tomes to see the veerings of ideas and thoughts.

Or—turning to "The Education of Henry Adams" (an admitted classic today), you run across a mention of Hegel's metaphysical doctrine of the identity of opposites. Being a contrarian you say to yourself that you will really get into Hegel sometime, and see what "the identity of opposites" might have to do with the theory of contrary opinion. In the meantime, you can get the nub of the Hegel philosophy from the encyclopedia. There you're informed that Hegel "relied heavily upon his logical dialectic: he taught that in the universal process each thesis contains the seeds of, and naturally evokes its antithesis. . . ." and so on. Yes, you say to yourself, I'll have to study Hegel, even though it will be tough sledding. The very fact you have chased a thought as far as the encyclopedia illustrates how a chance comment in something you've read sets you off on an educational chase. Just what Henry Adams intended to bring out, I imagine, when he wrote "The Education of Henry Adams."

STOPS PUBLICATION — Frank D. Schroth, publisher of the Brooklyn Eagle, 114-year-old daily newspaper in Brooklyn, New York city, said March 16 the Eagle does not ever intend to resume publication." Its presses stopped for 47 days in a wage-increase strike of the CIO New York Newspaper Guild. (AP Wirephoto).

Saugerties

Radio Station Is Proposed for Area

Saugerties, March 18—John Lynker, former resident of Saugerties has announced a proposal to operate a 1,000 watt AM radio station in Saugerties.

Lynker, a member of the staff of WVNJ in Newark, N. J. for three years and with various other affiliations in radio here and in New York said he has applied for a license to operate the station in Saugerties at 950 kilocycles on the AM wave band.

The call letters of the proposed outlet would be WSKL which would be subject to the approval of the Federal Communications Commission.

The proposed station will be owned and operated by the Skylark Corporation which will have it's main offices at Mt. Marion, where the two tower transmitter will be located. Lynker is president.

The station would broadcast from 6 a. m. to sundown, seven day a week and cover a radius of 15 miles south of Poughkeepsie and north to Albany or approximately 2,500 square miles.

Mr. Lynker said that the new station does not anticipate any network affiliation.

2,000 Sign Up ForCentralization

Saugerties, March 18—The centralization study committee announced today that all the petitions containing more than 2,000 signatures and asking the commissioner of education to draft a centralization program in Saugerties have been placed in the care of the State Education Department.

More than 800 signatures were on petitions circulated in the Village of Saugerties and in the other districts, 1,235 had signed. No signatures were received from residents of Glasco.

The committee said that within the next two weeks a representative of the State Education Department will be in town to make a survey. According to reliable sources representatives have already begun the survey.

The committee said that failure of the appearance of Glasco signatures on the petitions did not affect their strength. Even without Glasco signers, the committee observed that the number of qualified school voters who signed is within the number required by the commissioner.

Chamber to Vote Name Changing

Saugerties, March 18 — The proposal to change the name and title of the Saugerties Chamber of Commerce to Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce, Inc., was accepted by members in attendance at the regular meeting of the businessmen's group held Wednesday night in the Municipal building.

However, in accordance with the by-laws of the organization such a change must be announced at two succeeding meetings of the group and then must be voted on and passed by 51 per cent of the membership.

During the meeting the resignation of Vice-President Robert S. Russell was accepted. Mr. Russell was elected as village trustee on Tuesday and indicated by his letter that due to his affiliation with the village government he would not be able to function efficiently burdened with "a division of interests."

President Tom Reynolds selected a nominating committee to name a candidate to fill the vacancy: John C. Sauer, Andrew P. Vozdick and Nathan Aaron.

The annual banquet committee for the meal early in May includes Harold C. Bauser, Mrs. Marzell Roming, Otto Bumb, M. Lawrence Carroll and Reynolds.

Two Syrup Producers

All maples yield sweet sap, but only two are significant to syrup producers—the sugar maple and the black maple, says the National Geographic Society. In New England and neighboring Canada conditions are especially favorable for the collection of sap. Chief factor is the combination of freezing nights and thawing days that encourages the sap's spring flow.

Add dressing to a salad just before serving; vinegar in the dressings wilt the greens.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 18 (AP)—The stock market was mixed today with a tendency to advance in evidence in the early afternoon.

Most price changes were small. Some extended from around 3 points lower to 4 points higher. These were exceptional.

Trading was quiet after a fast start. Volume was in the vicinity of two million shares for the day. Yesterday's total was 2,200,000 shares when the market was rising.

Steels and aircrafts turned down while coppers and motors were higher. Rails were mixed as were most other sections of the list.

Still under the influence of their proposed merger, Sperry Corp. up 9 points yesterday, dashed ahead around 5 points today and then lost most of that gain, while Remington Rand, off ½ yesterday, rose today between 2 and 3 points and then settled back under its best.

Late Bulletin

New York, March 18 (AP)—The head of the State Mediation Board said today representatives of the Brooklyn Eagle, whose publisher announced its suspension "is irrevocable," have agreed to meet with state mediators late today.

The publisher of The Eagle yesterday turned down further federal mediation efforts aimed at continuing the 114-year-old daily which has been shut down because of a strike of the CIO American Newspaper Guild.

Jailed for Looting Osterhoudt Auto

New York, March 18 (Special)—A jail term was imposed in Special Sessions Court here Thursday on a New York man for looting the car of Ross K. Osterhoudt of RD 1, Stone Ridge.

The defendant, Robert Morrison, 34, of 261 West 15th street, was sentenced to 60 days in the workhouse. He pleaded guilty to a larceny charge earlier this month.

On March 6 he threw a rock through the window of the Osterhoudt car, parked at 113th street and Morningside Drive here, and made off with three suitcases of clothing.

Morrison was arrested by Patrolman John F. Kelly of the 24th Precinct as he was walking away with the loot.

Plan Voted . . .

may be accepted, rejected or changed.

THE STATE, in its first draft, had proposed a new approach to the Rondout creek bridge on the city side, but it was recommended that this phase of the plan be delayed pending further study, and the city asked that Hurley avenue and the viaduct section of Washington avenue be included.

State engineers indicated at first that the viaduct was not a problem to be met in fulfillment of the plan, because it was providing for a new traffic spur connecting with The Onteora Trail (Route 28) and the thruway but the city maintained that the viaduct would still be a local traffic problem.

THE THRUWAY spur, as originally planned, is to extend northwestward from a traffic circle in the vicinity of Albany avenue, Broadway and St. James street. Also planned is a traffic outlet to connect with the uptown section at Fair street extension.

Sections of Broadway, Wurts and McEntee streets are to be widened as arterial routes, and it is now expected that changes will be made on Hurley avenue and the section of Washington avenue added to the system.

Plans being prepared by consulting engineers hired by the state were recently reported in an advanced stage and the project is due to be placed on the 1956 state road program. The addition of Hurley avenue and the viaduct section of Washington avenue are not expected to affect integrated parts of the plan as it was originally presented. A main achievement will be elimination of the viaduct bottleneck.

Long Honeymoon

Chicago (AP) — When Martin and Sena Kjeldsen were married in 1890 in Aarus, seaport on the eastern coast of Jutland, Denmark, they decided to spend their honeymoon in the United States. They are still here. He is 86 and a retired cement finisher. She is 85.

Memoriam

In remembrance of my dear daughter, Mrs. Pearl Bush Doyle, who departed from me March 18, 1949.

Remembrance of one so dear
Often brings a silent tear,
Thoughts return of things long past,
Time rolls on, but memories last.

MOTHER.

Memoriam

In loving memory of Marion O. Avery who passed away 1 year ago, March 18, 1954.

At home on the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair;
Some day, somewhere, when my task is done,
With joy I shall meet you there.

A LOVING FRIEND.

Burial was made recently in St. Charles Cemetery at Gardiner of Thomas Kaiser, who was a resident of Plattekill for 54 years. Surviving relatives live out-of-town.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The more you learn about new-fangled ideas the more often you think that perhaps some old theories are valid after all.

The Ruminator keeps a clutter of books on his bedside reading table, as he likes to roam around in his reading. The current assortment includes a volume of Emerson's Essays, Adams' autobiography, "The Education of Henry Adams," on down to Marquand's recent book, "Sincerely, Willis Wayde," and a new book sent in for review which I haven't had time to get into yet, "Education or Indoctrination," by Mary L. Allen (Caxton).

ANOTHER TINY little book I like to dip into is a digest, you might call it, which discusses Thucydides and his classic history of the Peloponnesian War. It is revealing to read the debates and palaver which preceded the outbreak of hostilities between Athens and Sparta. History hasn't changed. Men talked about war and how to sidestep it by appeasements and "deals" in about the same manner and language, two thousand years ago, as they do now. It tends to keep you from getting all excited about new threats when you realize that neither the world nor the people in it have changed very much. They haven't changed for the better, that's sure, insofar as war is concerned. The method of warfare has, indeed, grown more frightful, with every passing decade. The technological revolution has been an amazing development. But did you ever stop to consider how difficult it would be to win the affirmative side of a debate on the subject: The Airplane Has Been a Benefit and a Blessing to Society?

Let's turn to another subject. Being what my liberal friends term an old fogy (I confess to being a realistic reactionary), I get considerable pleasure and stimulation from older books, while still enjoying new ones like Marquand's.

FOR EXAMPLE, I was particularly struck an evening or so ago with some sentences in Emerson's essay on "Wealth." Perhaps you'll like to refresh your recollection of this wise American. Asserting that "wealth brings with it its checks and balances," Emerson added these remarks which remain valid today, although denied in some quarters:

"The basis of political economy is non-interference. The only safe rule is found in the self-adjusting meter of demand and supply. Do not legislate. Meddle, and you snap the sinews with your sumptuary laws. Give no bounties: make equal laws: secure life and property, and you need not give alms.

"Open the doors to talent and virtue, and they will do themselves justice, and property will not be in bad hands. In a free and just commonwealth, property rushes from the idle and imbecile, to the industrious, brave, and persevering.

"The laws of nature play through trade . . . The level of the sea is not more surely kept, than is the equilibrium of value in society, by the demand and the supply: and artifice or legislation punishes itself, by reactions, gluts, and bankruptcies."

SPACE LIMITS quotations — but perhaps you'll dig out your old volume of Ralph Waldo's Essays and become reacquainted. He wasn't such an old fogy at that! Did you notice, by the way, that Emerson put "demand" first: demand and supply? Usually you see it written supply and demand. Basically, of course, demand is the ruling factor in the equation and comes first.

Notwithstanding all the new-fangled ideas in vogue, the Ruminator believes you can count on it that the Law of Demand and Supply has not been repealed!

Books have a habit of sending you on fascinating haunts: Emerson, in the above, to old and new economic tomes to see the veerings of ideas and thoughts.

Or—turning to "The Education of Henry Adams" (an admitted classic today), you run across a mention of Hegel's metaphysical doctrine of the identity of opposites. Being a contrarian you say to yourself that you will really get into Hegel sometime, and see what "the identity of opposites" might have to do with the theory of contrary opinion. In the meantime, you can get the nub of the Hegel philosophy from the encyclopedia. There you're informed that Hegel "relied heavily upon his logical dialectic: he taught that in the universal process each thesis contains the seeds of, and naturally evokes its antithesis. . . ." and so on. Yes, you say to yourself, I'll have to study Hegel, even though it will be tough sledding. The very fact you have chased a thought as far as the encyclopedia illustrates how a chance comment in something you've read sets you off on an educational chase. Just what Henry Adams intended to bring out, I imagine, when he wrote "The Education of Henry Adams."

STOPS PUBLICATION — Frank D. Schroth, publisher of the Brooklyn Eagle, 114-year-old daily newspaper in Brooklyn, New York city, said March 16 the Eagle does not ever intend to resume publication." Saugerties

Radio Station Is Proposed for Area

Saugerties, March 18—John Lynker, former resident of Saugerties has announced a proposal to operate a 1,000 watt AM radio station in Saugerties.

Lynker, a member of the staff of WVNJ in Newark, N. J. for three years and with various other affiliations in radio here and in New York said he has applied for a license to operate the station in Saugerties at 950 kilocycles on the AM wave band.

The call letters of the proposed outlet would be WSKL which would be subject to the approval of the Federal Communications Commission.

The proposed station will be owned and operated by the Skylark Corporation which will have it's main offices at Mt. Marion, where the two tower transmitter will be located. Lynker is president.

The station would broadcast from 6 a. m. to sundown, seven day a week and cover a radius of 15 miles south of Poughkeepsie and north to Albany or approximately 2,500 square miles.

Mr. Lynker said that the new station does not anticipate any network affiliation.

2,000 Sign Up ForCentralization

Saugerties, March 18—The centralization study committee announced today that all the petitions containing more than 2,000 signatures and asking the commissioner of education to draft a centralization program in Saugerties have been placed in the care of the State Education Department.

More than 800 signatures were on petitions circulated in the Village of Saugerties and in the other districts, 1,235 had signed. No signatures were received from residents of Glasco.

The committee said that within the next two weeks a representative of the State Education Department will be in town to make a survey. According to reliable sources representatives have already begun the survey.

The committee said that failure of the appearance of Glasco signatures on the petitions did not affect their strength. Even without Glasco signers, the committee observed that the number of qualified school voters who signed is within the number required by the commissioner.

Chamber to Vote Name Changing

Saugerties, March 18 — The proposal to change the name and title of the Saugerties Chamber of Commerce to Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce, Inc., was accepted by members in attendance at the regular meeting of the businessmen's group held Wednesday night in the Municipal building.

However, in accordance with the by-laws of the organization such a change must be announced at two succeeding meetings of the group and then must be voted on and passed by 51 per cent of the membership.

During the meeting the resignation of Vice-President Robert S. Russell was accepted. Mr. Russell was elected as village trustee on Tuesday and indicated by his letter that due to his affiliation with the village government he would not be able to function efficiently burdened with "a division of interests."

President Tom Reynolds selected a nominating committee to name a candidate to fill the vacancy: John C. Sauer, Andrew P. Vozdick and Nathan Aaron.

The annual banquet committee for the meal early in May includes Harold C. Bauser, Mrs. Marzell Roming, Otto Bumb, M. Lawrence Carroll and Reynolds.

Two Syrup Producers

All maples yield sweet sap, but only two are significant to syrup producers—the sugar maple and the black maple, says the National Geographic Society. In New England and neighboring Canada conditions are especially favorable for the collection of sap. Chief factor is the combination of freezing nights and thawing days that encourages the sap's spring flow.

Add dressing to a salad just before serving; vinegar in the dressings wilt the greens.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 18 (AP)—The stock market was mixed today with a tendency to advance in evidence in the early afternoon.

Most price changes were small. Some extended from around 3 points lower to 4 points higher. These were exceptional.

Trading was quiet after a fast start. Volume was in the vicinity of two million shares for the day. Yesterday's total was 2,200,000 shares when the market was rising.

Steels and aircrafts turned down while coppers and motors were higher. Rails were mixed as were most other sections of the list.

Still under the influence of their proposed merger, Sperry Corp. up 9 points yesterday, dashed ahead around 5 points today and then lost most of that gain, while Remington Rand, off ½ yesterday, rose today between 2 and 3 points and then settled back under its best.

Late Bulletin

New York, March 18 (AP)—The head of the State Mediation Board said today representatives of the Brooklyn Eagle, whose publisher announced its suspension "is irrevocable," have agreed to meet with state mediators late today.

The publisher of The Eagle yesterday turned down further federal mediation efforts aimed at continuing the 114-year-old daily which has been shut down because of a strike of the CIO American Newspaper Guild.

Jailed for Looting Osterhoudt Auto

New York, March 18 (Special)—A jail term was imposed in Special Sessions Court here Thursday on a New York man for looting the car of Ross K. Osterhoudt of RD 1, Stone Ridge.

The defendant, Robert Morrison, 34, of 261 West 15th street, was sentenced to 60 days in the workhouse. He pleaded guilty to a larceny charge earlier this month.

On March 6 he threw a rock through the window of the Osterhoudt car, parked at 113th street and Morningside Drive here, and made off with three suitcases of clothing.

Morrison was arrested by Patrolman John F. Kelly of the 24th Precinct as he was walking away with the loot.

Plan Voted . . .

may be accepted, rejected or changed.

THE STATE, in its first draft, had proposed a new approach to the Rondout creek bridge on the city side, but it was recommended that this phase of the plan be delayed pending further study, and the city asked that Hurley avenue and the viaduct section of Washington avenue be included.

State engineers indicated at first that the viaduct was not a problem to be met in fulfillment of the plan, because it was providing for a new traffic spur connecting with The Onteora Trail (Route 28) and the thruway but the city maintained that the viaduct would still be a local traffic problem.

THE THRUWAY spur, as originally planned, is to extend northwestward from a traffic circle in the vicinity of Albany avenue, Broadway and St. James street. Also planned is a traffic outlet to connect with the uptown section at Fair street extension.

Sections of Broadway, Wurts and McEntee streets are to be widened as arterial routes, and it is now expected that changes will be made on Hurley avenue and the section of Washington avenue added to the system.

Plans being prepared by consulting engineers hired by the state were recently reported in an advanced stage and the project is due to be placed on the 1956 state road program. The addition of Hurley avenue and the viaduct section of Washington avenue are not expected to affect integrated parts of the plan as it was originally presented. A main achievement will be elimination of the viaduct bottleneck.

Decrease in Cigarettes Sold

There was a 3.7 per cent decrease in the number of cigarettes sold in the United States between 1953 and 1954 and a 3 per cent decrease between 1952 and 1953, some but not all of it attributable to increased use of king size cigarettes, says the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

street, and were open from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. every day except Sundays. W. B. Finch was the librarian. There was also a Rondout Circulating Library Assn., organized in 1854, which contained some 600 books. Thomas Cornell was president and T. F. Hibbard was librarian. Now we have just one library near the high school but none downtown or uptown and of course no mobile library.

Who knows perhaps if Andrew Carnegie, the steel king, had not made Kingston an offer to build a library back in May 3, 1902, if the city maintained it, which offer of course Kingston accepted, we may not have had as nice a building as we have. At the time, the library was being held on the second floor of the City Hall, where a room was set aside for that purpose. From time to time I have heard their desire to enlarge the library. Some had ventured that the building could be brought right up to the sidewalk with main entrance at sidewalk level and have several floors for new and enlarged departments. Libraries are fascinating to me whether here or in New York city. I always spend much more time than I plan once I enter one, just going through books and magazines.

No doubt most readers know the famous New York City, Fifth avenue, and 42nd street library with the lions on the Fifth avenue entrance. There they have newspaper rooms, magazine rooms, separate reading rooms, research department, picture rooms and foreign departments. Most any question that comes up can be answered in that library either by personal visit or correspondence. It is a remarkable place and world known. Their magazine files used to interest me, for under most headings you could find a dozen or so magazines and could ask for any of them. Most magazines I never heard of, such as various trade magazines. Also if you were working on any project and you needed pictures, it was surprising what you could find there. Those pictures could be taken out like a book for study. So I do hope, in the near future, that one of the drives, of the many which are run in town, will be for the expansion of the library, where you get so much for so little if you only care to drop in and ask for it. In past years I took advantage of its many services and know what pleasure it is to many folks to be able to get the latest books and magazines there now.

Charge Arab Center Would Discredit Israel

The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith today charged that the new Arab Information Center in New York, operating with semi-diplomatic status, has been consulting with "professional anti-Semites" to develop an Arab propaganda campaign in the United States.

THE CENTER, financed by the Arab League, was opened in recent weeks as an informational and cultural exchange. But, ADL declared, in its program to win sympathy for the Arab League states and discredit Israel, the center has, through Arab League intermediaries, conferred with anti-Semitic leaders about methods of arousing public feeling against Jews in this country.

The ADL charges were made in a published report prepared by Arnold Forster, its chief counsel and civil rights director.

The new Arab Information Center is located at 445 Park avenue. This is also the address of the United Nations delegations of the League of Arab States and the Kingdom of Yemen.

Chief of the center is Kamel Abdul Rahim, one-time Egyptian ambassador to the United States. Rahim arrived here in November as UN representative from Yemen, with rank of ambassador. This grants him diplomatic immunity. The information center, however, is to be registered with the U. S. Justice Department as "a foreign agent."

MR. FORSTER said today that the Anti-Defamation League's assessment of the Arab center as 'the mass coordinating point for nationwide dissemination of pro-Arab, anti-Israeli and anti-Semitic propaganda" is documented by statements and reports attributed to Rahim and other Arab League officials.

Among these, ADL reports, was a policy statement by Rahim, made in a letter sent October 25 from Cairo before his departure for the United States, to Dr. Omar Haliq, Arab League representative in New York. Rahim wrote that the Arab center welcomes the cooperation and assistance "in all fields and ways" of professional anti-Semites.

In the same letter, Rahim emphasized that such activities were to be handled discreetly so as not to expose the Arab center as anti-Semitic or compromise its character as "a cultural and informational exchange." He said he intended to deal with this matter personally.

THE ADL REPORT also discloses that Dr. Haliq had reviewed for the Arab League the activities of Gerald L. K. Smith, who runs the Christian Nationalist Party; Joseph P. Kamp, head of the Constitutional Educational League; Allen Zoll, whose American Patriots, Inc. was listed as "fascist" by the Justice Department; and Benjamin H. Freedman, confessed financier of anti-Jewish publications, and had advised his superiors in Cairo what cooperation the propaganda center could expect from them.

Also set forth in the ADL report are:

A statement by Rahim last November to a group of Arab diplomats that the information center would be "high pressure" and, when fully established, would "cope with" every important Jewish organization in the United States.

A meeting last December 3 of Rahim and representatives of non-Arab League nations with large Moslem populations. Rahim sought to impress UN delegates from Iran, Indonesia, Pakistan and Afghanistan that the Arab cause and Moslem affairs are "interrelated." He asked for financial support from their governments for his propaganda work. The delegates were noncommittal.

DISCLOSURE of a plan for coordinating activities between the Arab center and Dr. Izzat Tannous, director of a group called the Arab Palestine Office which conducts a religion-centered appeal on behalf of Arab refugees. Tannous' group, which will shortly establish headquarters in Washington, has been distributing illustrated pamphlets showing "atrocities against Arab civilians, victims of an Anglo - American - Jewish-United Nations conspiracy.

An acknowledgement by Rahim that he has a subsidy of $400,000 for his first year's operation. This is exclusive of executive salaries and rents for the New York center and branch centers that are to be established elsewhere in the United States and Canada.

A report by Rahim on his meeting with Merwin K. Hart, head of the anti-Jewish National Economic Council, a New York group. The two men, said ADL, discussed methods of raising funds among Americans for Arab causes.

As part of his strategy, the ADL report declares, "Rahim will not permit his office to become openly involved in controversy or charges of anti-Semitism. Accordingly, overt anti-Semitism will be barred."

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

The mention of Cornell Park in this column the other evening brought up the question as to when the park was deeded to Kingston. It seems, it was on July 28, 1925 that the Board of Public Works accepted the offer of the Cornell Estate to deed the city, the plot of ground on Wurts street, which is now known as Cornell Park. At the time, the Board named Dr. George F. Chandler, a committee of one, to consult with the Cornell Estate to see if the estate was willing to turn the land over to the city. As a result of Dr. Chandler's negotiations, today the people of Rondout can boast of a park which overlooks a view of the Rondout Bridge, Creek and Hudson River. So just 25 years ago this park became a part of the city park system, and I do hope in the coming quarter of a century the upper part of the park may become a convenient and reasonable priced housing project for folks who desire to live in Rondout.

Decrease in Cigarettes Sold

There was a 3.7 per cent decrease in the number of cigarettes sold in the United States between 1953 and 1954 and a 3 per cent decrease between 1952 and 1953, some but not all of it attributable to increased use of king size cigarettes, says the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

Sheriff Cluett Schantz presented diplomas Wednesday night to 89 persons who completed the law enforcement officers' training school in planned apprehension. The school, which began February 9, had sessions each Wednesday evening at the court house. Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation served as instructors. Attending were members of the sheriff's staff, special deputies, police officers from Kingston, Ellenville, and New Paltz, guards from Wallkill State Prison and members of the New York Board of Water Supply police. Representative of the 89 law enforcement officers attending the final session of a training school in planned apprehension at the court house Wednesday night are, left to right, standing: Sgt. Harold Butler, Wallkill State Prison; Sgt. Vincent Eckert, BWS Police; Deputy Sheriff Everett Lyons, Highland; Deputy Sheriff James Dirago, Marlborough; Sheriff Cluett Schantz; Under Sheriff Clayton Vredenburg, and (at blackboard) Special Agent James McShane, FBI, instructor. Seated, Deputy Sheriff Thomas Mayone, Glasco; Constable Peter Peterson, Rifton; Patrolman Marion Sheely, New Paltz; Detective Clarence Brophy, Kingston, and Officer Arthur Mantone, Ellenville. Charge Arab Center Would Discredit Israel

The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith today charged that the new Arab Information Center in New York, operating with semi-diplomatic status, has been consulting with "professional anti-Semites" to develop an Arab propaganda campaign in the United States.

THE CENTER, financed by the Arab League, was opened in recent weeks as an informational and cultural exchange. But, ADL declared, in its program to win sympathy for the Arab League states and discredit Israel, the center has, through Arab League intermediaries, conferred with anti-Semitic leaders about methods of arousing public feeling against Jews in this country.

The ADL charges were made in a published report prepared by Arnold Forster, its chief counsel and civil rights director.

The new Arab Information Center is located at 445 Park avenue. This is also the address of the United Nations delegations of the League of Arab States and the Kingdom of Yemen.

Chief of the center is Kamel Abdul Rahim, one-time Egyptian ambassador to the United States. Rahim arrived here in November as UN representative from Yemen, with rank of ambassador. This grants him diplomatic immunity. The information center, however, is to be registered with the U. S. Justice Department as "a foreign agent."

MR. FORSTER said today that the Anti-Defamation League's assessment of the Arab center as 'the mass coordinating point for nationwide dissemination of pro-Arab, anti-Israeli and anti-Semitic propaganda" is documented by statements and reports attributed to Rahim and other Arab League officials.

Among these, ADL reports, was a policy statement by Rahim, made in a letter sent October 25 from Cairo before his departure for the United States, to Dr. Omar Haliq, Arab League representative in New York. Rahim wrote that the Arab center welcomes the cooperation and assistance "in all fields and ways" of professional anti-Semites.

In the same letter, Rahim emphasized that such activities were to be handled discreetly so as not to expose the Arab center as anti-Semitic or compromise its character as "a cultural and informational exchange." He said he intended to deal with this matter personally.

THE ADL REPORT also discloses that Dr. Haliq had reviewed for the Arab League the activities of Gerald L. K. Smith, who runs the Christian Nationalist Party; Joseph P. Kamp, head of the Constitutional Educational League; Allen Zoll, whose American Patriots, Inc. was listed as "fascist" by the Justice Department; and Benjamin H. Freedman, confessed financier of anti-Jewish publications, and had advised his superiors in Cairo what cooperation the propaganda center could expect from them.

Also set forth in the ADL report are:

A statement by Rahim last November to a group of Arab diplomats that the information center would be "high pressure" and, when fully established, would "cope with" every important Jewish organization in the United States.

A meeting last December 3 of Rahim and representatives of non-Arab League nations with large Moslem populations. Rahim sought to impress UN delegates from Iran, Indonesia, Pakistan and Afghanistan that the Arab cause and Moslem affairs are "interrelated." He asked for financial support from their governments for his propaganda work. The delegates were noncommittal.

DISCLOSURE of a plan for coordinating activities between the Arab center and Dr. Izzat Tannous, director of a group called the Arab Palestine Office which conducts a religion-centered appeal on behalf of Arab refugees. Tannous' group, which will shortly establish headquarters in Washington, has been distributing illustrated pamphlets showing "atrocities against Arab civilians, victims of an Anglo - American - Jewish-United Nations conspiracy.

An acknowledgement by Rahim that he has a subsidy of $400,000 for his first year's operation. This is exclusive of executive salaries and rents for the New York center and branch centers that are to be established elsewhere in the United States and Canada.

A report by Rahim on his meeting with Merwin K. Hart, head of the anti-Jewish National Economic Council, a New York group. The two men, said ADL, discussed methods of raising funds among Americans for Arab causes.

As part of his strategy, the ADL report declares, "Rahim will not permit his office to become openly involved in controversy or charges of anti-Semitism. Accordingly, overt anti-Semitism will be barred."

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

The mention of Cornell Park in this column the other evening brought up the question as to when the park was deeded to Kingston. It seems, it was on July 28, 1925 that the Board of Public Works accepted the offer of the Cornell Estate to deed the city, the plot of ground on Wurts street, which is now known as Cornell Park. At the time, the Board named Dr. George F. Chandler, a committee of one, to consult with the Cornell Estate to see if the estate was willing to turn the land over to the city. As a result of Dr. Chandler's negotiations, today the people of Rondout can boast of a park which overlooks a view of the Rondout Bridge, Creek and Hudson River. So just 25 years ago this park became a part of the city park system, and I do hope in the coming quarter of a century the upper part of the park may become a convenient and reasonable priced housing project for folks who desire to live in Rondout.

I wonder if the readers ever gave it a thought that practically the only building giving public service that has not changed in the last 50 years is our Kingston Library. The Kingston Library Assn. celebrated its 100th anniversary last year for it was organized in 1854. At the time they had their library at 5 Wall street, and were open from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. every day except Sundays. W. B. Finch was the librarian. There was also a Rondout Circulating Library Assn., organized in 1854, which contained some 600 books. Thomas Cornell was president and T. F. Hibbard was librarian. Now we have just one library near the high school but none downtown or uptown and of course no mobile library.

Who knows perhaps if Andrew Carnegie, the steel king, had not made Kingston an offer to build a library back in May 3, 1902, if the city maintained it, which offer of course Kingston accepted, we may not have had as nice a building as we have. At the time, the library was being held on the second floor of the City Hall, where a room was set aside for that purpose. From time to time I have heard their desire to enlarge the library. Some had ventured that the building could be brought right up to the sidewalk with main entrance at sidewalk level and have several floors for new and enlarged departments. Libraries are fascinating to me whether here or in New York city. I always spend much more time than I plan once I enter one, just going through books and magazines.

No doubt most readers know the famous New York City, Fifth avenue, and 42nd street library with the lions on the Fifth avenue entrance. There they have newspaper rooms, magazine rooms, separate reading rooms, research department, picture rooms and foreign departments. Most any question that comes up can be answered in that library either by personal visit or correspondence. It is a remarkable place and world known. Their magazine files used to interest me, for under most headings you could find a dozen or so magazines and could ask for any of them. Most magazines I never heard of, such as various trade magazines. Also if you were working on any project and you needed pictures, it was surprising what you could find there. Those pictures could be taken out like a book for study. So I do hope, in the near future, that one of the drives, of the many which are run in town, will be for the expansion of the library, where you get so much for so little if you only care to drop in and ask for it. In past years I took advantage of its many services and know what pleasure it is to many folks to be able to get the latest books and magazines there now.

CUTTING THE AIR-CRASH TOLL

When a plane caught in a snowstorm or a vicious thunderstorm cracks into a mountain, the only puzzle is why the storm was not avoided. But over the years many mysterious mountain crashes have occurred in weather merely cloudy or sometimes even clear.

Now it is disclosed that the Air Force Research Center at Cambridge, Mass., and the Office of Naval Research have been studying the problem for four years and have made a discovery of the highest importance to air safety.

They learned that any mountain range with crests above 300 feet can produce vertical air currents like huge waterfalls. Some flow down, but some flow upward at frightening speed. Others whirl about like giant Ferris wheels.

Planes trapped in these varied currents are likely to find their altitude gauges thrown off the track, with resulting peril to the aircraft.

To probe these treacherous air drafts, Air Force and Navy researchers sent piloted, motorless gliders right into their midst. Risk to pilots was great. Some who have gone through powerful surges of air around mountain summits report that at times they lost all control of their ships for a short period. Controlled instrument flying was impossible.

A pilot might think he was climbing steadily when actually he was dropping 2500 feet a minute in apparently smooth air. One of the oddities is that smooth air and turbulent currents seem to exist side by side around mountain peaks.

Heavy gusts might buffet a plane, causing instruments to flutter, and then suddenly the mountain range the pilot thought far beneath him would loom up straight ahead. Unquestionably many a regularly scheduled airplane has found itself in this very predicament just before it crashed on a craggy mountainside.

The fact that cloud caps often hide high peaks further complicates the problem, and probably accounts for mountain accidents in otherwise clear weather.

This painstaking four-year inquiry has produced data and charts of tremendous value to civil and military aviation. These charts might be compared to those used by ships in marking dangerous shoals and reefs. Already made available to the commercial airlines and others, they are considered by air experts to be a prime factor in the greatly improved air safety record of 1954.

Since they have understood the perilous mountain air currents, researchers have steadily advised all fliers to steer clear of them wherever they are known to exist. Evidently the warning has been heeded. If it continues to be, this very puzzling type of plane crash may be largely a thing of the past.

Highest commendation must go to the Air Force and Navy researchers who broke the mystery and thereby contributed so mightily to the country's air safety.

WASTED MOTION

We are beginning to write the inevitable sequel to any truce dealings with the Communists. Our government has informed Sweden and Switzerland that we agree with their proposal to scrap the Korean armistic commission as useless.

Strong evidence exists that the Reds have repeatedly violated the truce terms, most particularly by bringing jet aircraft into North Korea. But the commission blocked by the reluctance of its two Communist members, Poland and Czechoslovakia, has done nothing about the violations.

Swedish and Swiss representatives have complained many times that it is impossible to police North Korean territory to check for compliance as required by the truce.

Thus it has become obvious to us as well as to them that managing the armistice is a meaningless farce. The only sensible thing is to end the pretense and the waste motion.

MARKET TIPS

The dramatic personality of Walter Winchell has high-lighted an investigation into the Stock Exchange operations which otherwise has been very dull. The question is, when is a tip a tip?

Trading in stocks or bonds or anything else is part of the capitalist process of using surplus capital at risk with the object of a profit. The law of supply and demand plays a role in this process, but risk-taking often involves a factor of gambling, sometimes called speculation.

Let us say that I am in a restaurant and I hear three men converse, as I recently did, using more decibels than they imagined. It was not eavesdropping; actually they forced their private conversation upon me and upon all the others in their vicinity. I thus heard of a very important prospective transaction. I had a tip. In a word, if what these men said to each other was correct, a very sizeable fortune could be earned by an investment. If the deal fell through, I doubt whether there would be any loss at all, or at most, a small loss.

Now the question arises, should I give the tip to someone who can afford the risk, or being in the business of telling the public what comes to me, should I shout it from the housetops? This is an ethical question which different men approach from different points of view. Some believe that the responsibility is to make known what is available. Others hold to the doctrine that unless one can guarantee against loss, one should not advise in such matters. Still others feel that no one is required to accept a tip and therefore the tipster is absolved.

Winchell's contention, I believe, is that he provides advance news and not tips; that no one is required to go into the market.

The recent rise in the stock market may be due to many causes:

1. A flight from the dollar. This is often called a hedge against inflation. Undoubtedly whenever any form of inflation appears, those who have surplus capital prefer to see it in the form of equities rather than in currency or government bonds which are the same as currency. Buying shares in a company is purchasing ownership, but in most instances the buyer is only interested in equities as investments or as speculation. He transfers his responsibilities of ownership to management. Such owners of stock make a market in the stock itself as though it were a commodity, when actually it is a certificate of partial ownership.

2. John J. McCloy, Chairman of the Chase National Bank, has testified before the Fulbright Committee that the stock market's current activities cannot be attributed to unusual purchases by trust funds, both personal and pension. He said that these funds amounted to "only a small fraction of the value of stock traded on the Exchange." McCloy should be well-informed on this subject because of his connection with the Chase Bank, but it is known that some Foundations, which formerly invested most of their funds in bonds, moved to stocks as a hedge against inflation. Furthermore, labor unions are not only investing pension funds but the ordinary surpluses in their treasuries in common stock, often in the companies of their industry. Such investments are generally held as long-term investments. They therefore produce a shortage of stock available for trading and the price goes up.

3. A large number of mergers have taken place, offering splendid opportunities for a profit by the sale of stock. Smart operators are always looking for such opportunities and often buy on the prospect that such an opportunity may occur. When a tight proxy fight takes place and each side is anxious to come into possession of interesting amounts of stock, it is likely that the price will rise, even if only temporarily. A profit can be made during the period of anxiety.

The high prices for American equities are more likely to be due to a hedge against continued inflation than to any other cause, but the real danger to our economy lies in a possible lowering of the value of the dollar in Europe, which could be very serious indeed. The problem then that the Fulbright Committee ought to investigate if it really is concerned with our economic dangers is not the New York stock market but the world position of the dollar.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

VACCINATION AGAINST SMALLPOX

One of the main reasons for the amazing increase in the average length of life since the beginning of the century is the decrease in the death rate from the communicable diseases of childhood. This has been largely accomplished by immunization against such diseases as smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus (lock-jaw), typhoid fever, and even whooping cough.

Immunization first was used successfully against smallpox as long ago as 1800 and vaccination has become a common-place event for children in the civilized world. Perhaps because in many states the laws require that all children be vaccinated against smallpox before they enter school, many parents have concluded that vaccination should not be performed until the child is ready for school and it is true that health officers, physicians and social workers have not stressed the advantages of vaccination at an earlier date. Many of us may be surprised, therefore, to learn that the most favorable time for the first vaccination against smallpox is in infancy and even in the newborn period.

Dr. Edward L. Bauer, Professor of Pediatrics (children's diseases) at Jefferson Medical College, tells us that experience seems to show that the length of the immunity (ability to resist and overcome smallpox) from vaccination lasts longer when vaccination is given to the newborn, or in infancy, than when it is given at school age. In addition, when vaccination is given at this early age less reactions occur and, when they do occur, they are less severe than at a later age. Dr. Bauer warns us, however, that should the infant be in a weak condition or if some skin condition is present, such as eczema, which has caused a break in the skin, vaccination should not be considered.

How long do we remain immune to smallpox after vaccination? This cannot be definitely stated since it may vary from person to person. As a general rule, it is considered wise to have a child who has been vaccinated at this early age, vaccinated again when he reaches school age or at any other time when the child has been exposed to smallpox. If the vaccination "takes," that is, causes a noticeable reaction, then it was needed. If it does not take, then no harm is done and the parents are reassured that their child is protected.

"If a second vaccination is followed only by a local reaction, it indicates that the person is immune to smallpox. This reaction may consist of a small macule (tiny spot on skin not raised above skin level) which appears within 24 hours. In some cases a papule (a small solid elevation of the skin) may appear within 72 hours, a small blister may develop within five days, or a small blister containing pus may develop within 7 days."

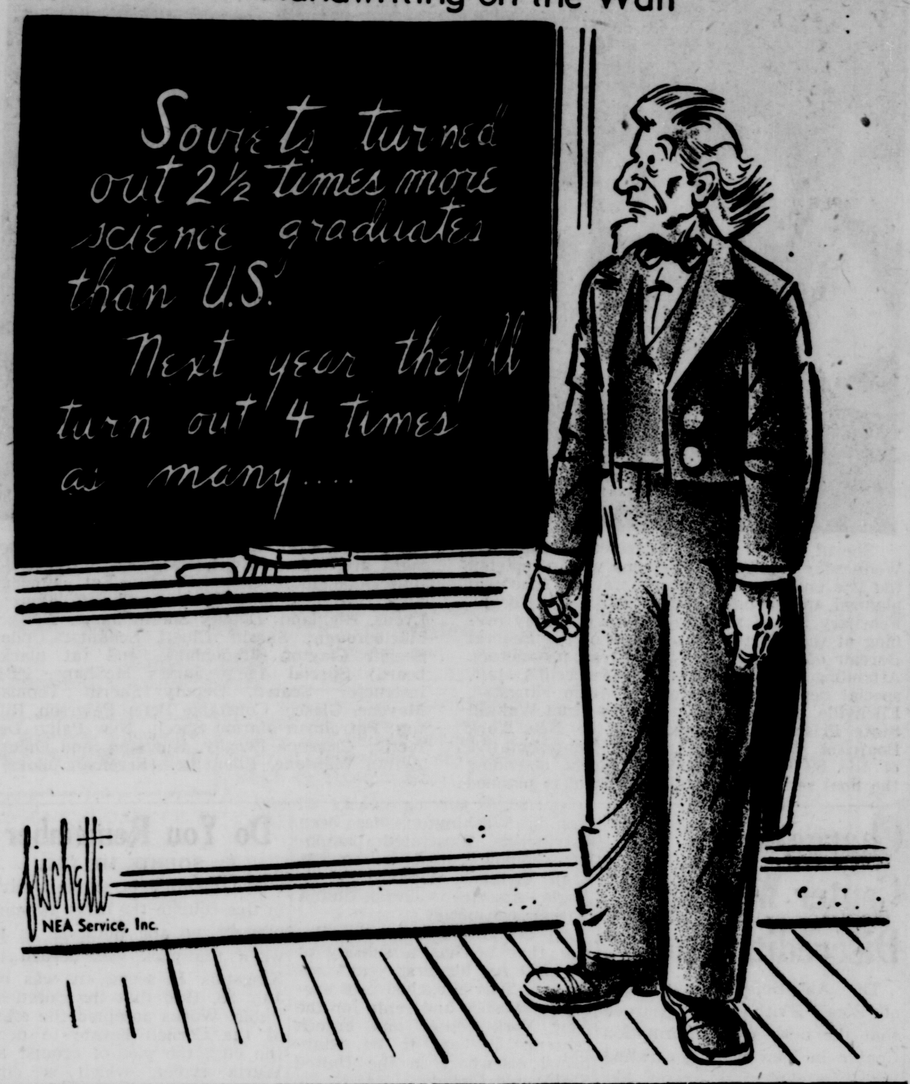

It is reassuring to parents to know not only that protection against such a scourge as smallpox is available for their children but also that it is in their interest to have their children vaccinated at a very early age.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Democratic National Committee Chairman Paul Butler's statement that Mrs. Eisenhower's health might prevent the President from being a candidate for re-election is only one of his reasons for believing Ike won't run again. Among Butler's other arguments are these:

The President feels that by 1956 he will have done the job he was elected to do.

The President does not really like the White House job.

The President's appeal to the voters will not be as great as in 1956.

The Democrats can beat the Republicans in 1956.

ALL THIS IS perhaps more wishful thinking than sound political reasoning. There couldn't possibly be a less informed authority on what goes on in the mind of a Republican President than the chairman of the Democratic National Committee. They are his views, however, for what they are worth.

Democratic Chairman Butler's statement in New York that Mrs. Eisenhower's health was not too good and that this would cause the President not to run created a storm of Republican criticism in Washington, as fully reported in the news columns.

One thing Mr. Butler has shown a great capacity for in the few months he has been Democratic National Chairman is to stampede the Republican elephants. Whether he does this by accident or on purpose is not clear. The net effect is the same. If he keeps on at this rate, he'll have everybody crazy by November, 1956.

CHAIRMAN BUTLER'S contention that the Democrats can win the 1956 election, regardless of candidates, is something else again. Mr. Butler is of course paid a handsome salary to promote and publicize this point of view.

The basis for it is a belief that in the 1956 election there will not be 60 million votes cast, as there were in 1952. The appeal of General Eisenhower as a war hero plus gripes over 20 years of Democratic control are held responsible for the 33-to-26-million vote.

Democrats now say they have to change only three million votes to win. They point to the latest Gallup poll projections, indicating more Democrats in the country than Republicans.

If the 1956 vote should be smaller than in 1952, it would be a reversal of all past trends. For the Democrats to win in a small vote election would also be a reversal of past theories that the bigger the vote, the better the Democratic prospects for victory.

ELECTION RESULTS of 1954 provide the major arguments for Democratic beliefs their 1956 chances are improved.

They claim now that Republican state legislatures in New York, California and other states gerrymandered the Democrats out of 14 congressional seats, which should have been added to their present 29 seat majority.

They can point to 27 Democratic governors now in office.

In state legislatures, the Democrats claim a net gain in 1954 of 404 House seats and 106 Senate seats. They now control 25 Lower Houses and 20 Senates in state legislatures, with two states evenly divided.

Yalta Blunders Have Altered Entire Course of Modern History, Is Opinion

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 18—The famous "Yalta papers" now made public after ten years of secrecy merely confirm what was suspected at the time—namely, that moral principle was flagrantly disregarded by Messrs. Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill and that the Atlantic Charter with its professions of high purpose, was torn to shreds.

The world has known the main facts—that the people of Poland were sold down the river and that Stalin was appeased again and again. The blunders made at Yalta have altered the whole course of modern history.

Already the apologists are crying out that "it's all water over the dam anyhow," but they forget that, unless the facts of historic conferences are clearly revealed, no lessons can be learned that will prevent a recurrence of the same mistakes in the future.

For today many of the ardent advocates of "peaceful coexistence" are talking the same language of surrender and appeasement as was heard at Yalta. It matters little to such advocates that more than 30,000 American boys gave their lives and 110,000 were wounded in Korea in a noble attempt to maintain the principle of collective security. Again, for "practical" reasons, it is being urged that an aggressor nation must be accepted in the United Nations.

It is precisely this sin of expediency which is disclosed repeatedly in the "Yalta papers," and that's why it is important for the whole world to read now what happened when well-meaning men like the late President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill mistakenly put their trust in Stalin and in the professed intentions of the Communist regime.

It may be true that there was Communist infiltration in the American delegation at Yalta, that Alger Hiss was hypnotized by Communist philosophy and that he helped create the atmosphere of trustfulness which permeated the Yalta conference when he was there as an adviser for the State Department. But the philosophical prejudices of Alger Hiss or the readiness of Harry Dexter White, then assistant secretary of the treasury, to recommend a $10 billion loan to Soviet Russia do not explain the timidity and the softness which both Roosevelt and Churchill manifested in their dealings with Stalin. There is evidence that both the American and British leaders overestimated the military and political importance of Soviet Russia and made concessions that have brought on the "cold war" of postwar years.

Few people will read the full text of the "Yalta Papers," which runs about 500,000 words, but the leaders of thought in America as well as members of Congress and others throughout the government charged with responsibility for future steps in world policy will want to examine carefully the tragic record of appeasement written in those documents lest the same mistakes be made now.

This correspondent wrote just after the Yalta conference many criticisms of what was done there, and unfortunately stood almost alone as a critic in those days. One newspaper editor in a small city in New York state wrote a letter at the time taking this writer to task for his views and pointing out that many of the larger newspapers had not, in their editorials, opposed what was done at Yalta but had argued in favor of it as a practical step. This was unhappily an example of the conformity of thought which some observers then believed was essential, and it certainly shows now the importance of criticism of government policy, even in wartime.

Naturally the "Yalta Papers" have since gotten into partisan politics. The Republican national platform of 1952 denounced the decisions made at Yalta, while the Democrats have always felt they must defend what happened there. The truth is there has been an appeasement sentiment right along in both parties. It cropped up this very week in connection with the Far Eastern crisis, as a number of first-year Democrats in the House of Representatives called for a new "declaration of foreign policy" which savors of the same kind of thing that emerged from the Yalta conference.

Their talk is of a "prebiscite" for Formosa and a trusteeship, but the tyranny of the Communist tyrants on the Chinese mainland and the needs for a free election there is ignored. The idea of "coalition" of any kind with the Communists has been proved worthless—and, indeed, the Nationalist government in China was undermined by the same tactics on the part of some American officials.

So the lessons of Yalta are plain, and they add up to the fact that compromise with and concession to gangsters is never justified, and that deserting the principle of self-determination of peoples in free elections does not bring stability or a coexistence that is peaceful.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Tucson, Arizona, March 17—Some weeks ago I received a tip that a major now serving overseas in the American army had been director of Commonwealth College, a Communist school which operated at Mena, Ark., in the early 'thirties and was closed by the state of Arkansas because it was a subversive institution and for that reason only. The present governor of Arkansas, Orval Faubus, was a Commonwealth student and formal leader of organized student activities. Faubus is a major of the army reserve and, under the loyalty requirements, is compelled to state under oath whether he ever was a member of or active in any Communist, Fascist or Nazi organization. The oath is sweeping and seems to contain no loopholes. During the late political campaigns, the primary and regular election, telegrams from authorities in Washington were flaunted before the electorate of Arkansas indicating that Faubus has met the usual requirements under that oath.

I sent my tip to Senator Joe McCarthy, who investigated the major named as a former official of Commonwealth. On March 9 McCarthy made a formal presentation of facts before the Senate Investigations Subcommittee of which he formerly was chairman. The present chairman is Senator John L. McClellan, of Arkansas, who, of course, is thoroughly familiar with the history of Commonwealth. McClellan is also a member of the same state political machine which elected Faubus.

In presenting his information to McClellan's subcommittee, McCarthy did not name the major under discussion. However, he did submit an army serial number and an army P. O. address. Joe then left it up to McClellan and the Democratic majority either to summon the major back from overseas to testify or to take the consequences. The temptation to discredit the Pentagon Republicans is always present. The fact that this would help McCarthy in his fight against Eisenhower and the palace guard would be a minor consideration.

The character of Commonwealth College and the fact that it was a Communist exploit are too well established in public records to require further discussion. However, the Arkansas Gazette, of Little Rock, the biggest, which is not to say the "best" paper in the state, has doggedly tried to belittle the truth. In general, the Gazette tried to have it that commonwealth was an ideal, a dream which went wrong. The "long arm of the Kremlin apparently reached out after 1935" to exploit and subvert an innocent if not indeed noble effort of earnest idealists, according to the Gazette's version of things when it was campaigning for Fabus last year and minimizing his personal record at a Communist center.

The Arkansas Recorder a political weekly of statewide circulation published in Little Rock, has been keeping tabs on the Gazette and, in this case it pointed out the gimmick. The Recorder noted that the Gazette was trying to persuade the voters that Faubus had left Commonwealth by the time the Reds got in. Now the Recorder nailed down the fact that in 1935 the same Gazette, under different editorial administration, crusaded against this Communist cell. In that campaign the Gazette revealed shocking conditions existing well before Faubus showed up with a free scholarship received from persons never identified for the record. In brief, the Recorder shows that the same Gazette itself established the character of this Communist apparatus before Faubus landed there.

The present editor of the Gazette is Harry S. Ashmore, an import from South Carolina who wrote a "report" of a "study" on segregation in southern public schools which was subsidized by the Ford Foundation. Ashmore's "report" ardently favored abolition of segregation, but T. R. Waring, editor of the Charleston News and Courier, has been running fiery editorials accusing the Saturday Evening Post, practically all of the northern newspaper press and many southern papers of suppressing truth bearing on the problem in the south. Mr. Waring is a member of a group of newspaper men on a board called the Southern Education Reporting Serv-

Clintondale

Clintondale, March 17—Harold and John Minard spent Sunday fishing at Sheepshead Bay—with very poor luck.

The Rev. James Alcock Brimelow has accepted a call to become interim pastor of the Associate Reformed Church of Newburgh. The Rev. Mr. Brimelow, who retired as a Methodist minister some time ago, has been in England and lately has been assisting in several churches in the area. He has had charges in New York, Pleasantville, Tarrytown and Monticello.

Allied Communities Fire Company will hold another in a series of game and card parties at the firehouse on the night of Thursday, March 24. Games will start at 8 o'clock and refreshments will be served.

Lenten Communion service will be held in the Methodist Church on Sunday, March 27, in both the Clintondale and Modena Churches.

The regular Church Night supper and business meeting will be held in the Friends Church on Friday night, March 18. The supper committee is made up of Mrs. Lillian Harcourt, Mrs. Parker Hull, Mrs. Sadie Decker, Mrs. Isaac Ellis and Kenneth Lyons. The study group will meet Sunday night at the parsonage to study "Quakerism."

Dr. and Mrs. James Brimelow have been entertaining relatives from New Mexico.

Mrs. William Sharp who has been ill at her home is again able to be out.

Mrs. Edith Ackhart visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Olivett and family of Pleasant Valley.

The Rev. Jesse Stanfield has been named chairman of the Red Cross drive in this area of the town of Plattekill. Assisting him will be Florence Minard, Ethel Dingee, Mary Canora, Verona Shook, Mrs. Anthony Palazzo, Mrs. Albert Angelo, Mrs. Walter Rhodes, Mrs. Leslie Strongman, Mrs. William Rhodes, Tobia Cappozzi and W. G. Minard.

The Sinclair Oil Company has engaged the Clintondale Grange Hall for an afternoon and evening meeting on Wednesday, April 6.

The next regular meeting of the Clintondale Grange will be held Monday, March 21. The program will be in charge of Chester Coy, Hilda Rhodes and Eber Palmer, Jr.

CUTTING THE AIR-CRASH TOLL

When a plane caught in a snowstorm or a vicious thunderstorm cracks into a mountain, the only puzzle is why the storm was not avoided. But over the years many mysterious mountain crashes have occurred in weather merely cloudy or sometimes even clear.

Now it is disclosed that the Air Force Research Center at Cambridge, Mass., and the Office of Naval Research have been studying the problem for four years and have made a discovery of the highest importance to air safety.

They learned that any mountain range with crests above 300 feet can produce vertical air currents like huge waterfalls. Some flow down, but some flow upward at frightening speed. Others whirl about like giant Ferris wheels.

Planes trapped in these varied currents are likely to find their altitude gauges thrown off the track, with resulting peril to the aircraft.

To probe these treacherous air drafts, Air Force and Navy researchers sent piloted, motorless gliders right into their midst. Risk to pilots was great. Some who have gone through powerful surges of air around mountain summits report that at times they lost all control of their ships for a short period. Controlled instrument flying was impossible.

A pilot might think he was climbing steadily when actually he was dropping 2500 feet a minute in apparently smooth air. One of the oddities is that smooth air and turbulent currents seem to exist side by side around mountain peaks.

Heavy gusts might buffet a plane, causing instruments to flutter, and then suddenly the mountain range the pilot thought far beneath him would loom up straight ahead. Unquestionably many a regularly scheduled airplane has found itself in this very predicament just before it crashed on a craggy mountainside.

The fact that cloud caps often hide high peaks further complicates the problem, and probably accounts for mountain accidents in otherwise clear weather.

This painstaking four-year inquiry has produced data and charts of tremendous value to civil and military aviation. These charts might be compared to those used by ships in marking dangerous shoals and reefs. Already made available to the commercial airlines and others, they are considered by air experts to be a prime factor in the greatly improved air safety record of 1954.

Since they have understood the perilous mountain air currents, researchers have steadily advised all fliers to steer clear of them wherever they are known to exist. Evidently the warning has been heeded. If it continues to be, this very puzzling type of plane crash may be largely a thing of the past.

Highest commendation must go to the Air Force and Navy researchers who broke the mystery and thereby contributed so mightily to the country's air safety.

WASTED MOTION

We are beginning to write the inevitable sequel to any truce dealings with the Communists. Our government has informed Sweden and Switzerland that we agree with their proposal to scrap the Korean armistic commission as useless.

Strong evidence exists that the Reds have repeatedly violated the truce terms, most particularly by bringing jet aircraft into North Korea. But the commission blocked by the reluctance of its two Communist members, Poland and Czechoslovakia, has done nothing about the violations.

Swedish and Swiss representatives have complained many times that it is impossible to police North Korean territory to check for compliance as required by the truce.

Thus it has become obvious to us as well as to them that managing the armistice is a meaningless farce. The only sensible thing is to end the pretense and the waste motion.

MARKET TIPS

The dramatic personality of Walter Winchell has high-lighted an investigation into the Stock Exchange operations which otherwise has been very dull. The question is, when is a tip a tip?

Trading in stocks or bonds or anything else is part of the capitalist process of using surplus capital at risk with the object of a profit. The law of supply and demand plays a role in this process, but risk-taking often involves a factor of gambling, sometimes called speculation.

Let us say that I am in a restaurant and I hear three men converse, as I recently did, using more decibels than they imagined. It was not eavesdropping; actually they forced their private conversation upon me and upon all the others in their vicinity. I thus heard of a very important prospective transaction. I had a tip. In a word, if what these men said to each other was correct, a very sizeable fortune could be earned by an investment. If the deal fell through, I doubt whether there would be any loss at all, or at most, a small loss.

Now the question arises, should I give the tip to someone who can afford the risk, or being in the business of telling the public what comes to me, should I shout it from the housetops? This is an ethical question which different men approach from different points of view. Some believe that the responsibility is to make known what is available. Others hold to the doctrine that unless one can guarantee against loss, one should not advise in such matters. Still others feel that no one is required to accept a tip and therefore the tipster is absolved.

Winchell's contention, I believe, is that he provides advance news and not tips; that no one is required to go into the market.

The recent rise in the stock market may be due to many causes:

1. A flight from the dollar. This is often called a hedge against inflation. Undoubtedly whenever any form of inflation appears, those who have surplus capital prefer to see it in the form of equities rather than in currency or government bonds which are the same as currency. Buying shares in a company is purchasing ownership, but in most instances the buyer is only interested in equities as investments or as speculation. He transfers his responsibilities of ownership to management. Such owners of stock make a market in the stock itself as though it were a commodity, when actually it is a certificate of partial ownership.

2. John J. McCloy, Chairman of the Chase National Bank, has testified before the Fulbright Committee that the stock market's current activities cannot be attributed to unusual purchases by trust funds, both personal and pension. He said that these funds amounted to "only a small fraction of the value of stock traded on the Exchange." McCloy should be well-informed on this subject because of his connection with the Chase Bank, but it is known that some Foundations, which formerly invested most of their funds in bonds, moved to stocks as a hedge against inflation. Furthermore, labor unions are not only investing pension funds but the ordinary surpluses in their treasuries in common stock, often in the companies of their industry. Such investments are generally held as long-term investments. They therefore produce a shortage of stock available for trading and the price goes up.

3. A large number of mergers have taken place, offering splendid opportunities for a profit by the sale of stock. Smart operators are always looking for such opportunities and often buy on the prospect that such an opportunity may occur. When a tight proxy fight takes place and each side is anxious to come into possession of interesting amounts of stock, it is likely that the price will rise, even if only temporarily. A profit can be made during the period of anxiety.

The high prices for American equities are more likely to be due to a hedge against continued inflation than to any other cause, but the real danger to our economy lies in a possible lowering of the value of the dollar in Europe, which could be very serious indeed. The problem then that the Fulbright Committee ought to investigate if it really is concerned with our economic dangers is not the New York stock market but the world position of the dollar.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

VACCINATION AGAINST SMALLPOX

One of the main reasons for the amazing increase in the average length of life since the beginning of the century is the decrease in the death rate from the communicable diseases of childhood. This has been largely accomplished by immunization against such diseases as smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus (lock-jaw), typhoid fever, and even whooping cough.

Immunization first was used successfully against smallpox as long ago as 1800 and vaccination has become a common-place event for children in the civilized world. Perhaps because in many states the laws require that all children be vaccinated against smallpox before they enter school, many parents have concluded that vaccination should not be performed until the child is ready for school and it is true that health officers, physicians and social workers have not stressed the advantages of vaccination at an earlier date. Many of us may be surprised, therefore, to learn that the most favorable time for the first vaccination against smallpox is in infancy and even in the newborn period.

Dr. Edward L. Bauer, Professor of Pediatrics (children's diseases) at Jefferson Medical College, tells us that experience seems to show that the length of the immunity (ability to resist and overcome smallpox) from vaccination lasts longer when vaccination is given to the newborn, or in infancy, than when it is given at school age. In addition, when vaccination is given at this early age less reactions occur and, when they do occur, they are less severe than at a later age. Dr. Bauer warns us, however, that should the infant be in a weak condition or if some skin condition is present, such as eczema, which has caused a break in the skin, vaccination should not be considered.

How long do we remain immune to smallpox after vaccination? This cannot be definitely stated since it may vary from person to person. As a general rule, it is considered wise to have a child who has been vaccinated at this early age, vaccinated again when he reaches school age or at any other time when the child has been exposed to smallpox. If the vaccination "takes," that is, causes a noticeable reaction, then it was needed. If it does not take, then no harm is done and the parents are reassured that their child is protected.

"If a second vaccination is followed only by a local reaction, it indicates that the person is immune to smallpox. This reaction may consist of a small macule (tiny spot on skin not raised above skin level) which appears within 24 hours. In some cases a papule (a small solid elevation of the skin) may appear within 72 hours, a small blister may develop within five days, or a small blister containing pus may develop within 7 days."

It is reassuring to parents to know not only that protection against such a scourge as smallpox is available for their children but also that it is in their interest to have their children vaccinated at a very early age.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Democratic National Committee Chairman Paul Butler's statement that Mrs. Eisenhower's health might prevent the President from being a candidate for re-election is only one of his reasons for believing Ike won't run again. Among Butler's other arguments are these:

The President feels that by 1956 he will have done the job he was elected to do.

The President does not really like the White House job.

The President's appeal to the voters will not be as great as in 1956.

The Democrats can beat the Republicans in 1956.

ALL THIS IS perhaps more wishful thinking than sound political reasoning. There couldn't possibly be a less informed authority on what goes on in the mind of a Republican President than the chairman of the Democratic National Committee. They are his views, however, for what they are worth.

Democratic Chairman Butler's statement in New York that Mrs. Eisenhower's health was not too good and that this would cause the President not to run created a storm of Republican criticism in Washington, as fully reported in the news columns.

One thing Mr. Butler has shown a great capacity for in the few months he has been Democratic National Chairman is to stampede the Republican elephants. Whether he does this by accident or on purpose is not clear. The net effect is the same. If he keeps on at this rate, he'll have everybody crazy by November, 1956.

CHAIRMAN BUTLER'S contention that the Democrats can win the 1956 election, regardless of candidates, is something else again. Mr. Butler is of course paid a handsome salary to promote and publicize this point of view.

The basis for it is a belief that in the 1956 election there will not be 60 million votes cast, as there were in 1952. The appeal of General Eisenhower as a war hero plus gripes over 20 years of Democratic control are held responsible for the 33-to-26-million vote.

Democrats now say they have to change only three million votes to win. They point to the latest Gallup poll projections, indicating more Democrats in the country than Republicans.

If the 1956 vote should be smaller than in 1952, it would be a reversal of all past trends. For the Democrats to win in a small vote election would also be a reversal of past theories that the bigger the vote, the better the Democratic prospects for victory.

ELECTION RESULTS of 1954 provide the major arguments for Democratic beliefs their 1956 chances are improved.

They claim now that Republican state legislatures in New York, California and other states gerrymandered the Democrats out of 14 congressional seats, which should have been added to their present 29 seat majority.

They can point to 27 Democratic governors now in office.

In state legislatures, the Democrats claim a net gain in 1954 of 404 House seats and 106 Senate seats. They now control 25 Lower Houses and 20 Senates in state legislatures, with two states evenly divided.

Tucson, Arizona, March 17—Some weeks ago I received a tip that a major now serving overseas in the American army had been director of Commonwealth College, a Communist school which operated at Mena, Ark., in the early 'thirties and was closed by the state of Arkansas because it was a subversive institution and for that reason only. The present governor of Arkansas, Orval Faubus, was a Commonwealth student and formal leader of organized student activities. McClellan, of Arkansas, who, of course, is thoroughly familiar with the history of Commonwealth. McClellan is also a member of the same state political machine which elected Faubus.

In presenting his information to McClellan's subcommittee, McCarthy did not name the major under discussion. However, he did submit an army serial number and an army P. O. address. Joe then left it up to McClellan and the Democratic majority either to summon the major back from overseas to testify or to take the consequences. The temptation to discredit the Pentagon Republicans is always present. The fact that this would help McCarthy in his fight against Eisenhower and the palace guard would be a minor consideration.

The character of Commonwealth College and the fact that it was a Communist exploit are too well established in public records to require further discussion. However, the Arkansas Gazette, of Little Rock, the biggest, which is not to say the "best" paper in the state, has doggedly tried to belittle the truth. In general, the Gazette tried to have it that commonwealth was an ideal, a dream which went wrong. The "long arm of the Kremlin apparently reached out after 1935" to exploit and subvert an innocent if not indeed noble effort of earnest idealists, according to the Gazette's version of things when it was campaigning for Fabus last year and minimizing his personal record at a Communist center.

The Arkansas Recorder a political weekly of statewide circulation published in Little Rock, has been keeping tabs on the Gazette and, in this case it pointed out the gimmick. The Recorder noted that the Gazette was trying to persuade the voters that Faubus had left Commonwealth by the time the Reds got in. Now the Recorder nailed down the fact that in 1935 the same Gazette, under different editorial administration, crusaded against this Communist cell. In that campaign the Gazette revealed shocking conditions existing well before Faubus showed up with a free scholarship received from persons never identified for the record. In brief, the Recorder shows that the same Gazette itselft established the character of this Communist apparatus before Faubus landed there.

The present editor of the Gazette is Harry S. Ashmore, an import from South Carolina who wrote a "report" of a "study" on segregation in southern public schools which was subsidized by the Ford Foundation. Ashmore's "report" ardently favored abolition of segregation, but T. R. Waring, editor of the Charleston News and Courier, has been running fiery editorials accusing the Saturday Evening Post, practically all of the northern newspaper press and many southern papers of suppressing truth bearing on the problem in the south. Mr. Waring is a member of a group of newspaper men on a board called the Southern Education Reporting Serv-

Scouts Hear Talk On Atomic First Aid

Saugerties, March 17 — Boy Scouts of Troop 32, Atonement Lutheran Church, at the regular meeting Monday evening heard a talk and witnessed a demonstration on general and atomic first aid.

Chester Swart of Livingston street who serves as a male nurse at the correctional institution at Napanoch conducted the demonstration.

During the meeting Fred Kurtzweg met the requirements for his firemanship and plumbing merit badges and was passed by Scoutmaster Kenneth Maclary.

Scouters attending the informative meeting included District Commissioner Eugene H. Davis and Committeeman Edward Kiernan.

Fire Auxiliary Plans Bake Sale March 26

Saugerties, March 17—A food and bake sale was planned at the regular meeting of the auxiliary of the Malden-West Camp Fire Company Tuesday night in the Malden School.

The sale will be held Saturday, March 26, beginning at 10 a. m. in Genthner's Meat Market on Partition street.

It was voted to set aside funds for furnishing the toilets of the two firehouses in Malden and West Camp. Mrs. Carl Heese, Jr., and Mrs. Carl Reiger, both of Evesport, were accepted as new members.

Mrs. Joseph T. Dengler, president, reported that a number of recipes for the cook book project of the auxiliary have been received. She asks the cooperation of all auxiliary members to bring in their favorite recipes to use in the cook book the auxiliary will publish and put on sale.

In answer to a request by the firemen of the district, members agreed to handle the arrangements for serving refreshments at the second annual spring dance sponsored by the fire company on Saturday, May 14, at Bigelow Hall. Committee appointments were not announced.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Mrs. William L. Van Derbeck, Mrs. William R. Wrolsen and Mrs. Edgar Smith, Jr.

Committee Announced For Loyalty Parade

Saugerties, March 17 — The committee for the observance of Loyalty Day in Saugerties has been announced by Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, VFW, sponsor.

Donald G. Rice and Mrs. John J. Wood, Sr., were designated as general co-chairmen.

Others chosen were Mrs. Sara Overbaugh, essay contest chairman; William Brown, Mrs. John J. Prendergast and Mrs. LeRoy Lewis, co-chairmen of the social activities committee; Richard Hartman, chairman of the journal committee which includes Richard Aldrich, Richard Carnright, Mrs. Ethelda Shader, John J. Wood and William Keys.

Parade marshals will be John J. Wood and John Utter. Commander Bernard E. McCutcheon will serve as publicity chairman.

It was also announced that seven marching units were selected to participate in the parade scheduled for Saturday, April 30. They are Saugerties Drum Corps, Father Harty Drum Corps, Glasco Community Band, Athens American Legion Band, Port Ewen Drum Corps, Clayton's Military Band and the McCarthy All-Girl Band of Newburgh.

Inasmuch as the observance in Saugerties will be the only major Loyalty Day observance in the Hudson Valley, marching units from throughout the valley have agreed to participate.

The program will include church services in the morning, the parade in the afternoon with patriotic services following the parade at Cantine Memorial Field and entertainment at the municipal auditorium in the evening.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME (Registered U. S. Patent Office) By JIMMY HATLO

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., March 17 —Certainly, the Fulbright Committee has displayed ignorance and inability to intelligently discuss Stock Market procedure by the foolish questions they have asked.

They seemed utterly at sea when discussing the "Dow Industrial Average and comparing same with the highs of 1929. As most readers know, this average is made up of 30 stocks,—closing on March 3 at the following prices:

Allied Chemical & Dye	100
American Can	41½
American Smelt. & Ref.	46¾
American Tel. & Tel.	185⅞
American Tobacco	65⅞
Bethlehem Steel	128¾
Chrysler Corp.	70¾
Corn Products Refining	87⅜
duPont de Nemours	173¾
Eastman Kodak	73
General Electric	51¾
General Foods	77½
General Motors	96½
Goodyear Tire & Rubber	56
International Harvester	38½
International Nickel	65½
Johns-Manville	89⅞
Loew's Inc.	19⅝
National Distillers	22⅜
National Steel	65¾
Proctor & Gamble	101¼
Sears, Roebuck	85¼
Standard Oil of Calif.	79⅝
Standard Oil of N. J.	114½
Texas Company	93⅝
Union Carbide & Carbon	85⅜
United Aircraft	82¾
U. S. Steel	79⅛
Westinghouse Electric	79¾
Woolworth (F. W.) Co.	51⅜

THE COMMITTEE members worked with pencil and paper trying to get an average which checked with the Dow-Jones Averages for that day. They could not make it check; thence, they "smelled some money business by Wall Street." They forgot entirely that prices must be adjusted to stock dividends, split-ups, and other changes in the number of shares.

For instance, take a stock such as General Motors which last split two for one. In order to give the new quotation after the split a fair comparison, the new quotation must be adjusted for splits, stock dividends, etc. All this would be simple were it not for the fact that some of the 1929 stocks have been dropped from the Average.

Furthermore, there have been mergers which required higher mathematics to make the correct adjustments. These were made in order to be fair. It is very wrong for any member of the Fulbright Committee to suggest juggling. In fact, of the 1929 Dow-Jones List of 30 stocks only 17 remain in the present list of 30 stocks. Incidentally, it is rather interesting that the Wall Street Journal—owned by the Dow-Jones Company—apparently desires to sidestep this entire Average problem.

THERE ARE other important "Averages" such as the New York Times' Averages. Their Industrial Average is made up of 25 stocks; but the comparison may easily be checked. If the New York Times' Average goes up, the Dow-Jones Industrial Average usually also goes up, but by a varying amount. Other leading newspapers have separate Averages; but if plotted, they all will be nearly parallel in movement.

The Boston Stock Exchange broadcasts the "Babson Averages" each Monday through Friday at noon and after the close of the market. The real value of these Averages is not to compare with 1929; but to compare with "yesterday" or a "week or month ago." Now just a word regarding "Specialists," which seemed to trouble the committee.

In fact, the "Specialist" is the protector of the public who buy and sell stocks. He is charged by the New York Stock Exchange with a very specific and extremely responsible duty, namely that of "making a market" in one or more issues. To do this he must often risk his own funds by buying a stock in a falling market at a higher price than the public will pay at any given moment. In a rising market, the specialist is expected to sell stock from his own account at a lower price than the public is willing to sell. This prevents wide gyrations in the market price of any given stock, and protects a hurried seller from being "clipped" by being forced to accept a low price for his stock. Conversely, an anxious buyer is protected against paying too high a price at any given time.

ABOUT ONE-QUARTER of all New York Stock Exchange members act as specialists. One specialist may handle a number of stocks, but, in the case of very active issues, there may be a number of specialists handling the same issue. The Exchange has rigid rules governing the market experience and financial standing of specialists. The specialist must assume full responsibility for all orders to buy or sell turned over to him, maintaining a fair and orderly market in the stocks in which he specializes. His personal interests in the market must at all times be subordinated to the best interests of his customers. He cannot buy for his own account until he has executed all public orders held by him at the given price. In a nutshell, the specialist is a very important wheel in the Exchange's machinery—absolutely necessary to its smooth functioning. And I repeat, he is there to protect the buying and selling public.

This is what can be done to help the innocent investor not to get hooked by tips. The simplest protection would probably be to confine the investments of all dispensers of tips—see Financial Supplement of New York Times—to U. S. Government Bonds or bank accounts only. Yet, this would not prevent Winchell from passing out tips, as he now claims that he has no direct or indirect interest in any stock which he recommends.

FORTY YEARS serving Stock Exchanges makes me believe that the best protection is education and publicity. Some have suggested that the specialists' books of unfilled orders be made public for a time in advance of execution. This would not, however, be possible in rapidly moving trading such as takes place on the floor of the Exchange. Furthermore, a true picture would be most difficult to obtain as orders on the books can be pulled out any time. Thus, the specialists' books shift with the varying attitudes of the public. Perhaps it might help if investors who buy and sell in small lots were required to put limits on their orders. All in all, however, I conclude that the real question is one of educating the buyers and the sellers of stocks.

Legion Mock Trial Scheduled at VA Hospital, Albany

The comedy in the form of a mock trial, What Price Charmaine, will be presented by a cast from Kingston Post 150, American Legion, at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Albany, Wednesday, March 30, it has been announced by John Janakis, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Janakis said curtain time at the hospital is 6:15 p. m., and advised that a bus furnished by Pine Hill-Kingston Bus Corp., 27 Clinton avenue, will leave the local Legion building, West O'Reilly street, at 5 p. m. to transport Legionnaires desiring to make the trip.

THE COMEDY, written by the late Attorney Thomas F. Coughlin, a past commander of Kingston Post, is the story of a buck private accused of assaulting his sergeant. Bar de Luc, France is the setting for the incident, which has been revised to fit World War 2 conditions. Coughlin's original skit dealt with World War 1 in which he served.

What Price Charmaine has played to many a Legion gathering, and is expected to produce as many laughs at the hospital as it did on every occasion it was produced.

Jerry Martin, local automobile dealer, a navy man from the first world war, plays his original role as Charmaine. The supporting cast has four others as repeaters, Tommy Murray as the private in trouble, Harry Whitney, Al Messinger and Ed Luedtke, all World War 1 vets.

JANAKIS said he hoped the bus would be full going to the hospital, and advised Legionnaires contemplating the trip to let him know or call the American Legion building. "There'll be a lot of fun," he said, "and the cheer we can bring to the hospital veterans makes the project one of the foremost of our year's program."

The cast:

Are you a "Do-It-Yourself" Driver?

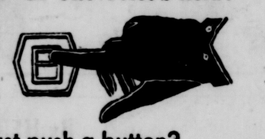

Or would you rather be waited on hand and foot?

Rather shift for yourself . . . or let Powerglide do it?

Shifting's smooth and easy with Chevrolet's new and finer Synchro-Mesh transmission. A flick of your wrist is all it takes to shift gears.

Powerglide, too, is better than ever this year. Even smoother and sturdier. It's the most popular automatic transmission* in Chevrolet's field!

Rather roll your own . . . or just push a button?

Chevrolet gives you separate crank controls both for windows and ventipanes. It's one of many extra conveniences in Chevrolet's Body by Fisher.

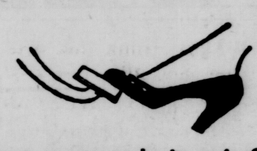

Your fingertip adjusts all four windows with automatic window and seat controls.* Are available on all Bel Air and "Two-Ten" models.

Position the seat yourself . . . or let electricity do it?

Chevrolet's big, beautifully upholstered front seat moves up and forward or down and back into your most comfortable driving position.

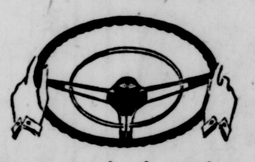

No worry about your battery in a new Ghevrolet. It's the only car in its field with the reserve power of a 12-volt electrical system!

Apply the brakes like this . . . or have power make it easier?

Improved brakes and new swing-type pedals make stopping a cinch. And Chevrolet's exclusive Anti-Dive control gives you "heads up" stops!

Chevrolet Power Brakes* are better than ever this year—let you stop by a simple pivot of your foot from accelerator to swing type brake pedal.

Want standard steering . . . or extra-easy Power Steering?

Try this easy new Chevrolet steering. Only Chevrolet and some higher-priced cars use a ball bearing system to cut friction to a minimum.

There's nothing quite so easy as Power Steering, of course. Good news: Chevrolet's new linkage-type Power Steering* carries a reduced price!

Janakis said curtain time at the hospital is 6:15 p. m., and advised that a bus furnished by Pine Hill-Kingston Bus Corp., 27 Clinton avenue, will leave the local Legion building, West O'Reilly street, at 5 p. m. to transport Legionnaires desiring to make the trip.

THE COMEDY, written by the late Attorney Thomas F. Coughlin, a past commander of Kingston Post, is the story of a buck private accused of assaulting his sergeant. Bar de Luc, France is the setting for the incident, which has been revised to fit World War 2 conditions. Coughlin's original skit dealt with World War 1 in which he served.

What Price Charmaine has played to many a Legion gathering, and is expected to produce as many laughs at the hospital as it did on every occasion it was produced.

Jerry Martin, local automobile dealer, a navy man from the first world war, plays his original role as Charmaine. The supporting cast has four others as repeaters, Tommy Murray as the private in trouble, Harry Whitney, Al Messinger and Ed Luedtke, all World War 1 vets.

JANAKIS said he hoped the bus would be full going to the hospital, and advised Legionnaires contemplating the trip to let him know or call the American Legion building. "There'll be a lot of fun," he said, "and the cheer we can bring to the hospital veterans makes the project one of the foremost of our year's program."

I have my savings account with the RONDOUT NATIONAL BANK . . . and I'll tell you why

It is so convenient to deposit part of my pay check each Friday when I finish work — as you know, the Rondout National Bank is the only commercial bank in Kingston where every Friday you may make a deposit or cash a check at any time from 9 a. m. to 7:30 p. m.

And when transacting business at the Rondout National Bank there is no trouble to find a place to park—without leaving your car you may make a deposit or cash a check at the drive in tellers window or if you prefer banking inside, use their convenient customer parking lot.

And while making my savings account deposit I also pay my Christmas Club, make a payment on my car loan, and deposit the balance in my checking account.

Believe me, there is nothing like having every banking service available where you maintain a savings account—and no other bank offers more complete and convenient banking service than the —

Are you a "Do-It-Yourself" Driver?

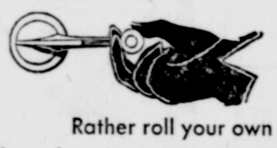

Or would you rather be waited on hand and foot?

Rather shift for yourself . . . or let Powerglide do it?

Shifting's smooth and easy with Chevrolet's new and finer Synchro-Mesh transmission. A flick of your wrist is all it takes to shift gears.

Powerglide, too, is better than ever this year. Even smoother and sturdier. It's the most popular automatic transmission* in Chevrolet's field!

Rather roll your own . . . or just push a button?

Chevrolet gives you separate crank controls both for windows and ventipanes. It's one of many extra conveniences in Chevrolet's Body by Fisher.

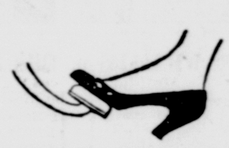

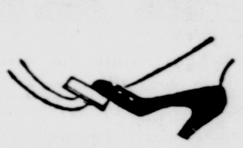

Your fingertip adjusts all four windows with automatic window and seat controls.* Are available on all Bel Air and "Two-Ten" models.

Position the seat yourself . . . or let electricity do it?

Chevrolet's big, beautifully upholstered front seat moves up and forward or down and back into your most comfortable driving position.

No worry about your battery in a new Chevrolet. It's the only car in its field with the reserve power of a 12-volt electrical system!

Apply the brakes like this . . . or have power make it easier?

Improved brakes and new swing-type pedals make stopping a cinch. And Chevrolet's exclusive Anti-Dive control gives you "heads up" stops!

Chevrolet Power Brakes* are better than ever this year—let you stop by a simple pivot of your foot from accelerator to swing type brake pedal.

Want standard steering . . . or extra-easy Power Steering?

Try this easy new Chevrolet steering. Only Chevrolet and some higher-priced cars use a ball bearing system to cut friction to a minimum.

There's nothing quite so easy as Power Steering, of course. Good news: Chevrolet's new linkage-type Power Steering* carries a reduced price!

Automatically—

Chevrolet's stealing the thunder from the high-priced cars!

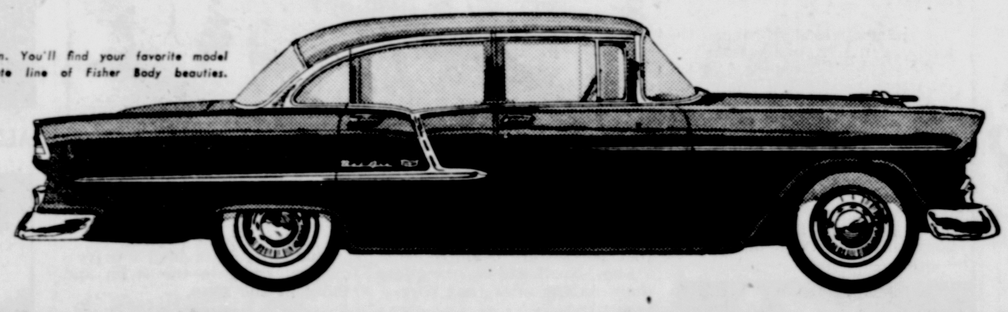

What's a high-priced car got that Chevrolet hasn't? Not automatic power features. Not style—just look below. Not performance—just try out Chevrolet's new V8 or one of the new 6's. Not ride—perhaps the thing that will surprise you most is Chevrolet's fine, solid feel on the road. Come put it to the test. See how Chevrolet's stealing the thunder from the high-priced cars in every way!

*Optional at extra cost.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Here's Bridge Tip To Remember

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Every experienced bridge player knows that it is important to keep the dangerous hand out of the lead. The play of today's hand illustrates a subtle point of this kind.

Declarer won the opening lead in dummy with the ace of diamonds and led a trump to the king. West held off, and South led the queen of spades. West held off again, and East completed a high-low in diamonds, indicating fairly clearly that he had the king of that suit.

South couldn't afford to lead another trump. If he did, West would take the ace of spades and continue the diamonds, forcing South to ruff the third diamond. This would leave South and West with one trump each. Whenever South knocked out the ace of clubs, West would lead still another diamond to force out declarer's last trump. West would then win the setting trick with his own last trump.

Instead of leading a third trump, therefore, South switched to clubs. He led a low club to dummy's king, and West ducked. Declarer led another club, and West took the ace. Now, however, West led a diamond to his partner's king; and East returned another club, allowing West to take the setting trick with a club ruff.

South could have made the contract by ducking the first trick instead of taking dummy's ace of diamonds. This would give the defenders their sure diamond trick at a time when neither opponent was dangerous.

If the defenders led a second diamond to dummy's ace, as good a defense as any, declarer would continue with two rounds of trumps and then switch to clubs. West could hold the ace of clubs until the second round, but then he would be unable to get to East's hand for a club ruff.

West would be unable to resume the diamonds, for dummy's last trump would be used to accept the ruff. South would then get back to his hand with a heart to force out the ace of trumps. In short, there would be no defense if South ducked the first trick and thus gave the dangerous opponent the lead before he was really dangerous.

Radar Light Fails

Richmond, Va. (AP)—Police radar, which has been tossing some costly winks at speeders, briefly became a suspect itself. A high school student reported a batch of flash bulbs mysteriously went off all at once when a radar-equipped patrol car passed by just as he prepared to take photographs of some classmates. Was radar to blame? It was the first complaint about the new police radar from anyone but a speeder. So traffic Maj. John G. Hanna, ordered an immediate trial. His men tempted the radar beam with flash bulbs from a distance and then in close. Finally the machine was festooned with flashbulbs. Nothing happened. Still no solution, though, to the mystery of the students' flash bulbs.

ice, also financed by the Ford Foundation. It is quite plain that he is not in there to promote Ashmore's personal attitudes in this and related political matters. On the contrary, he can be relied on to fight Ashmore to force discussion of phases of a number of social problems which are now "quarantined."

McCarthy sharply questioned Wilber M. Brucker, general counsel of the Defense Department, in the hearing on March 9. Brucker said he had never heard of the case of this major and asked, "are you sure he is a Communist?" To this McCarthy replied, "to be a director of a Communist college he obviously had to be a Communist." He added that a man bearing the same names as this major, a combination of two unusual first names and a surname which is by no means common, had a long record of affiliation with Communist fronts.

In dealing with this scene in Washington, the Gazette was consistent with its earlier attitude on Faubus' connection with Commonwealth It said: "In last summer's primary, Faubus said he was the victim of a whispering campaign because he once attended the college for a few days." However, it then admitted that Francis Cherry, his opponent, produced papers "purporting to show that Faubus attended Commonwealth for several months."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Here's Bridge Tip To Remember

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Every experienced bridge player knows that it is important to keep the dangerous hand out of the lead. The play of today's hand illustrates a subtle point of this kind.

Declarer won the opening lead in dummy with the ace of diamonds and led a trump to the king. West held off, and South led the queen of spades. West held off again, and East completed a high-low in diamonds, indicating fairly clearly that he had the king of that suit.

South couldn't afford to lead another trump. If he did, West would take the ace of spades and continue the diamonds, forcing South to ruff the third diamond. This would leave South and West with one trump each. Whenever South knocked out the ace of clubs, West would lead still another diamond to force out declarer's last trump. West would then win the setting trick with his own last trump.

Instead of leading a third trump, therefore, South switched to clubs. He led a low club to dummy's king, and West ducked. Declarer led another club, and West took the ace. Now, however, West led a diamond to his partner's king; and East returned another club, allowing West to take the setting trick with a club ruff.

Opening lead—♦ Q

South could have made the contract by ducking the first trick instead of taking dummy's ace of diamonds. This would give the defenders their sure diamond trick at a time when neither opponent was dangerous.

If the defenders led a second diamond to dummy's ace, as good a defense as any, declarer would continue with two rounds of trumps and then switch to clubs. West could hold the ace of clubs until the second round, but then he would be unable to get to East's hand for a club ruff.

West would be unable to resume the diamonds, for dummy's last trump would be used to accept the ruff. South would then get back to his hand with a heart to force out the ace of trumps. In short, there would be no defense if South ducked the first trick and thus gave the dangerous opponent the lead before he was really dangerous.

Radar Light Fails

Richmond, Va. (AP)—Police radar, which has been tossing some costly winks at speeders, briefly became a suspect itself. A high school student reported a batch of flash bulbs mysteriously went off all at once when a radar-equipped patrol car passed by just as he prepared to take photographs of some classmates. Was radar to blame? It was the first complaint about the new police radar from anyone but a speeder. So traffic Maj. John G. Hanna, ordered an immediate trial. His men tempted the radar beam with flash bulbs from a distance and then in close. Finally the machine was festooned with flashbulbs. Nothing happened. Still no solution, though, to the mystery of the students' flash bulbs.

ice, also financed by the Ford Foundation. It is quite plain that he is not in there to promote Ashmore's personal attitudes in this and related political matters. On the contrary, he can be relied on to fight Ashmore to force discussion of phases of a number of social problems which are now "quarantined."

McCarthy sharply questioned Wilber M. Brucker, general counsel of the Defense Department, in the hearing on March 9. Brucker said he had never heard of the case of this major and asked, "are you sure he is a Communist?" To this McCarthy replied, "to be a director of a Communist college he obviously had to be a Communist." He added that a man bearing the same names as this major, a combination of two unusual first names and a surname which is by no means common, had a long record of affiliation with Communist fronts.

In dealing with this scene in Washington, the Gazette was consistent with its earlier attitude on Faubus' connection with Commonwealth It said: "In last summer's primary, Faubus said he was the victim of a whispering campaign because he once attended the college for a few days." However, it then admitted that Francis Cherry, his opponent, produced papers "purporting to show that Faubus attended Commonwealth for several months."

Girl Scout Council Plans Annual Dinner, Meeting at Hotel

The annual meeting of Ulster County Girl Scout Council, Inc., will be held Monday, April 25 at the Governor Clinton Hotel, it was announced by Mrs. Donovan Buehring, president, at the meeting held Monday evening at the Jewish Community Center. The dinner will be at 6:30 p. m. and the business meeting will begin at 8:15 p. m.

It was also announced that the spring rally will be held at Camp Wendy, Saturday, April 23, with the program beginning at 3 p. m. A workshop weekend will be held at the camp, September 9 through 11, for leaders, assistant leaders and troop committee members. Mrs. Huyler Van Wagenen, chairman, announced the cookie sale this year will be from May 9 through May 14.

Mrs. Buehring mentioned the many celebrations held last week to mark the 43rd birthday of Girl Scouting in this country, with a party at the George Washington School climaxing the events.

The next regular board meeting will be held Monday, May 2 at Onteora Central School.

County Club Groups Explain Programs To Social Agencies

Representatives of the Ulster County 4-H Clubs, Farm Bureau, Home Bureau and Grange were guest speakers at the regular monthly meeting of the Ulster County Council of Social Agencies, Tuesday at the YWCA.

Mrs. Helen Stantial of the Ulster County Home Bureau Extension Service explained the educational program conducted in the 60 units of the Home Bureau, 19 of which are study club groups. The purpose of this program is to assist homemakers in the planning and study of food, clothing, housing, health and safety, family life and other related phases of the home. Special assistance is given free of charge to anyone desiring consultation on remodeling or constructing homes, home furnishings and landscaping. Mrs. Stantial urged the members and their friends to take advantage of these services offered by the Home Bureau by contacting the main office.

THE FARM BUREAU representative, Robert Guzewich, pointed out the agricultural income in Ulster county last year was $13,000,000. Broken down into four sections, four million was realized from fruit production of which apples were the leading fruit, 3½ million from poultry farming and 1½ million from vegetables and others.

Ulster county is the second leading apple producing county in New York State and ranks seventh in the nation. Mr. Guzewich explained the adult education and research program conducted by the Farm Bureau and its value to the farmers of Ulster county.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY is practically non-existent among 4-H members, said Edmund Bower, representative of the Ulster County 4-H Clubs. He attributed this to the fact that members of the ages 10 to 21, own and develop special interest projects themselves, creating parental interest and reaping economic benefits.

4-H work was developed on the demonstration principle and the girls and boys are encouraged to participate in competitions of demonstration from local to state levels. To stress the importance of this work, Mr. Bower stated that $4,000 is used each year for youth awards in 4-H projects at the Ulster County Fair.

Mrs. George Mollenhauer interpreted the Grange, also known as the Patrons of Husbandry, a fraternal organization to include the whole family. The word grange is adopted from England where the large farms of that country were called granges.

THE GRANGE is active in the foreign student exchange program, insurance program of its own and is instrumental in the promotion of farm legislation. It is the nations oldest farm organization, originating after the Civil War, in which 14 Ulster County granges participate.

The regular business meeting was conductd by the president, Adrian Kaplan, following the program.

CAJUN FAMILY—Grouped around the Great Big Doorstep are members of the cast of the next Coach House production, seated, Karen Dawkins, Mrs. John Kriz, Mary Swezy and standing, Mrs. Roy Wulff, Paul Whitten, Robert Steeley and Joan Curtin. The play will be presented at the George Washington School Wednesday and Thursday, March 23 and 24, at 8:30 p. m. for the benefit of the scholarship fund. (Photo Workshop photo)

Great Big Doorstep Is Next Production By Coach House

The Great Big Doorstep, a comedy about a backwoodsman and his offspring in the Mississippi delta region, will be the next play to be presented by the Coach House Players at the George Washington School, Wednesday and Thursday. Paul Whitten and Eve Wulff have been cast as the Crotchets, in roles played by Louis Calherne and Dorothy Gish when the play was first presented in New York. The Crotchets are Cajuns, or descendants of the Arcadians immortalized in Longfellow's Evangeline. The Commodore, so called because he had once been a river pilot until he fell asleep at his wheel and drove his boat into a mud-bank has been reduced to being a ditch-digger, though he prefers to call himself a Drainage Consultant. Mr. Whitten will have this part of the Commodore, who has such a reluctance to work that his wife and attractive children live hungrily in a shaky little shack.

In front of this shack, however, he has placed a magnificently imposing big doorstep that had obviously once graced someone's great mansion but that had been wrenched loose by the flooding river and salvaged by the Commodore. Proud of their handsome doorstep, the Crotchets become determined to get a house to match this noble step.

The main body of the play relates to their frenzied efforts to achieve their dream without working for it, that is, all but Ma Crotchet, who interposes her prayers and her hobby of raising lilies, which finally brings the cash to buy the longed-for home.

In addition to Paul Whitten and Eva Wulff as the colorful heads of the Crotchet family, the cast will also include Joan Curtin as an adolescent daughter; Yolanda Kriz as a younger daughter; Edward Guziak as the Commodore's sentimental brother and Roy Wulff, Alton Whitmore, Maureen Rice, Kay Levy and Robert Steeley. Two younger children in the family will be played by Mary Swezy and Karen Dawkins.

The play will be directed by Houston Richards.

Kara Naccarato Feted on Birthday

Patroon Is Host To Two Granges

Patroon Grange of Accord was host Monday night to members of Lake Katrine and Homowak Granges in the series of Ulster county visitation meetings, the next of which will be on March 23, when Patroon and Stone Ridge Granges will visit Plattekill Grange.

Patroon master, B. H. Marshall, welcomed the visitors on Monday and introduced Masters Leroy of Homowak and McCardle of Lake Katrine. The literary program was prepared by the visiting granges.

OTHERS INTRODUCED were Mrs. Daniel Morehouse, county chairman of the service and hospitality committee, Mrs. Isaac Graham, lady assistant of the New York State Grange, Mr. and Mrs. George Mullenhauer, master and lecturer of Ulster County Pomona Grange.

Master Mullenhaurer spoke on the advantages of children being employed at part time and light farm work as part of a plan to enable them to have some personal income, to take up some of their spare time, and as a method of combatting juvenile delinquency.

Twenty-seven members arrived in a chartered bus.

LAKE KATRINE GRANGE—Asbury Degree team will attend meeting at Lake Katrine Monday, to assist with ritualistic work when first and second degrees will be conferred on number of candidates. Next card party, Tuesday, March 29 in Grange Hall. Past Master's pin ceremonies at last meeting. Dartball teams played at Ulster Park, Tuesday.

HURLEY GRANGE — Mrs. Belle Dunbar, county chairman of cerebral palsy and Mrs. Charlotte Peck, director of the cerebral palsy center in Kingston were guests of the Grange Thursday evening. Mrs. Peck explained the work of the center and the aid given area residents. A movie on cerebral palsy entitled, Upstream, was shown by Ernest Myer. A dance will be held by the Grange March 26 and the proceeds will be given to the cerebral palsy fund.

Mrs. Dorothy Palen, chairman of service and hospitality, announced the cookie contest will be held March 24. Get well cards were sent to Thomas Newkirk and Mrs. Benson Krom Sr. The service and hospitality committee donated $2 to the Susan Freestone Fund and $1 to the Reforestation Program. The Grange donated $10 to the 4-H toward their camp. Master Andrew Lehtonen reported that so far 228 labor hours have been donated on the firehall project and that the work is progressing nicely. Fifty-six dozen pads have been turned over to the Cancer Society. Hosts and hostess for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Goetchius and Gilbert Cole.

The square dance team comprised of Mimi Basch, Mary Jane Stenson, Athena Snyder, Janet Lockwood, Wayne Gilbert, Arthur Harder, Stanton Warren, Jr. and Jansen Lockwood won the square dance contest sponsored by the Youth Committee and held at Stone Ridge Grange Hall, Saturday night.

Dorothy Parsons, Onteora Junior, To Girls' State

The Guidance Department of the Onteora Central School announced today Dorothy Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parsons, West Shokan, was selected by a ballot of the faculty as the junior girl representative to Girls' State.

Doris Juliano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Juliano, West Shokan, was selected as alternate. The selection of these girls is jointly sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliaries of the Towns of Shandaken and Olive.

The basis of selection of the girls to represent the Onteora School District was changed this year. The Legion auxiliaries agreed the selection of the girl to represent them could come from any part of the central district; the central district takes in areas in six towns and two counties. Miss Parson's selection was made on a district wide basis.

Miss Parsons participates in intramural athletics, is co-captain of the Marshall squad and junior apprentice of the yearbook, The Album. Miss Juliano participates in intramural athletics, is a member of the Marshall squad, junior apprentice of the yearbook, alternate for Student Council and circulation manager of the school newspaper, The Onteorator.

Harvey S. Lane Feted On 90th Birthday

Harvey S. Lane of High street, Phoenicia, was entertained at a turkey dinner at his home, Saturday, in honor of his 90th birthday. The guest of honor received many gifts and cards.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. James Bower of Brooklyn; Mrs. Nelson Ruoff and daughter, Miss Shirley Ruoffof this city; Mrs. Robert Ingalls of Oneonta; and Mrs. Harold Garrity and sons, Joseph and Edward of Grand Gorge; and Mrs. Mabel Hudler of Mt. Tremper, cousin of the guest of honor.

Many neighbors of Mr. Lane's were callers throughout the day.

Mass Concert To Feature Four Glee Club Groups

Four outstanding glee clubs of the Hudson Valley area will be featured in solo groups at the Mass Concert of glee clubs comprising the Mohawk-Hudson Male Chorus Ass'n Saturday evening, May 21, in the Saugerties Municipal Auditorium.

Between 300-400 men are expected to participate in the program which will include members of 10 glee clubs from this section of New York state. The Catskill Glee Club will be the host for the event while the Saugerties Drum Corps is the sponsoring organization.

Solo groups will be presented by the RPI College Glee Club and the Mendelssohn Club of Albany, both directed by Joel Dolvin; the IBM Male Chorus of Poughkeepsie, under the direction of Hans Meltzner, and the Hendrick Hudson Glee Club of Hudson, whose director is Steele Phillips.

The massed chorus of several hundred men will sing three groups of songs under the direction of Rolland E. Heermance of Saugerties, Kenneth Marquis of Middletown and Andrew Baird of Poughkeepsie.

Other participating glee clubs include the Queen Village Glee Club of Warwick, Apollo Club of Poughkeepsie, Mendelssohn Club of Kingston and the Schubert Club of Schenectady.

Two Local Girls Will Discuss College At Tea Saturday

A tea for high school juniors and seniors will be held Saturday from 3 to 5 p. m., at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The Keuka College curriculum and field period program will be discussed by college representatives, Miss Joan Van Keuren, Miss Carol Patterson of the admissions department, and Miss Nan Shurter, a sophomore at Keuka.

Tea will be poured by Mrs. Howard Shurter, assisted by Mrs. Reynolds Van Keuren.

Miss Shurter of 10 St. James street, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shurter.

Miss Van Keuren, a graduate of Keuka, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Van Keuren, 69 Lucas avenue.

A BROKEN NO-PRESENTS PACT

A young woman tells me: "A friend and I decided to eliminate the exchanging of birthday presents this year. So when her birthday came along I merely sent her a birthday card and that was all. My birthday was yesterday and in walked my friend with a present for me. I was very much embarrassed and when I told her that I thought we agreed not to exchange birthday presents this year, she said it was just a little something to say thank you for the many favors I had done for her. Should I accept this present or not, and if so, would it be proper for me to send her a belated birthday present in return?"

I think your friend was very unfair to you by ignoring your agreement, but there is nothing for you to do now but thank her appreciatively and let it go at that. To send her a belated birthday present will merely put you back where you were.

Concerning a Christening Present

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband has been asked to serve as godfather to a friend's child. I am invited to the christening, of course, but not to take part. Should the silver cup be engraved just from my husband or to include me too? Or am I supposed to give a little something extra?

Answer: The cup is from—and should be marked from — the godfather alone. But no additional present from you is necessary.

Each Bridesmaid in Different Color

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be possible for my four bridesmaids to be dressed alike in point of style, but each one in a different color? The girls like the idea very much because in this small town they won't have identical dresses to wear after the wedding.

Answer: If the colors are chosen to go well together they would be quite all right. In fact, the description of bridesmaids wearing "rainbow colors" is not unknown.

How are godparents chosen? What is their obligation? These and other questions are answered in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-36, "The New Baby." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, care of the Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Mrs. Stantial urged the members and their friends to take advantage of these services offered by the Home Bureau by contacting the main office.

THE FARM BUREAU representative, Robert Guzewich, pointed out the agricultural income in Ulster county last year was $13,000,000. Broken down into four sections, four million was realized from fruit production of which apples were the leading fruit, 3½ million from poultry farming and 1½ million from vegetables and others.

Ulster county is the second leading apple producing county in New York State and ranks seventh in the nation. Mr. Guzewich explained the adult education and research program conducted by the Farm Bureau and its value to the farmers of Ulster county.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY is practically non-existent among 4-H members, said Edmund Bower, representative of the Ulster County 4-H Clubs. He attributed this to the fact that members of the ages 10 to 21, own and develop special interest projects themselves, creating parental interest and reaping economic benefits.

4-H work was developed on the demonstration principle and the girls and boys are encouraged to participate in competitions of demonstration from local to state levels. To stress the importance of this work, Mr. Bower stated that $4,000 is used each year for youth awards in 4-H projects at the Ulster County Fair.

Mrs. George Mollenhauer interpreted the Grange, also known as the Patrons of Husbandry, a fraternal organization to include the whole family. The word grange is adopted from England where the large farms of that country were called granges.

THE GRANGE is active in the foreign student exchange program, insurance program of its own and is instrumental in the promotion of farm legislation. It is the nations oldest farm organization, originating after the Civil War, in which 14 Ulster County granges participate.

The regular business meeting was conductd by the president, Adrian Kaplan, following the program.

CAJUN FAMILY—Grouped around the Great Big Doorstep are members of the cast of the next Coach House production, seated, Karen Dawkins, Mrs. John Kriz, Mary Swezy and standing, Mrs. Roy Wulff, Paul Whitten, Robert Steeley and Joan Curtin. The play will be presented at the George Washington School Wednesday and Thursday, March 23 and 24, at 8:30 p. m. for the benefit of the scholarship fund. (Photo Workshop photo)

Great Big Doorstep Is Next Production By Coach House

The Great Big Doorstep, a comedy about a backwoodsman and his offspring in the Mississippi delta region, will be the next play to be presented by the Coach House Players at the George Washington School, Wednesday and Thursday. Paul Whitten and Eve Wulff have been cast as the Crotchets, in roles played by Louis Calherne and Dorothy Gish when the play was first presented in New York. The Crotchets are Cajuns, or descendants of the Arcadians immortalized in Longfellow's Evangeline. The Commodore, so called because he had once been a river pilot until he fell asleep at his wheel and drove his boat into a mud-bank has been reduced to being a ditch-digger, though he prefers to call himself a Drainage Consultant, Mr. Whitten will have this part of the Commodore, who has such a reluctance to work that his wife and attractive children live hungrily in a shaky little shack.

In front of this shack, however, he has placed a magnificently imposing big doorstep that had obviously once graced someone's great mansion but that had been wrenched loose by the flooding river and salvaged by the Commodore. Proud of their handsome doorstep, the Crotchets become determined to get a house to match this noble step.

The main body of the play relates to their frenzied efforts to achieve their dream without working for it, that is, all but Ma Crotchet, who interposes her prayers and her hobby of raising lilies, which finally brings the cash to buy the longed-for home.

In addition to Paul Whitten and Eva Wulff as the colorful heads of the Crotchet family, the cast will also include Joan Curtin as an adolescent daughter; Yolanda Kriz as a younger daughter; Edward Guziak as the Commodore's sentimental brother and Roy Wulff, Alton Whitmore, Maureen Rice, Kay Levy and Robert Steeley. Two younger children in the family will be played by Mary Swezy and Karen Dawkins.

The play will be directed by Houston Richards.

Patroon Is Host To Two Granges

Patroon Grange of Accord was host Monday night to members of Lake Katrine and Homowak Granges in the series of Ulster county visitation meetings, the next of which will be on March 23, when Patroon and Stone Ridge Granges will visit Plattekill Grange.

Patroon master, B. H. Marshall, welcomed the visitors on Monday and introduced Masters Leroy of Homowak and McCardle of Lake Katrine. The literary program was prepared by the visiting granges.

OTHERS INTRODUCED were Mrs. Daniel Morehouse, county chairman of the service and hospitality committee, Mrs. Isaac Graham, lady assistant of the New York State Grange, Mr. and Mrs. George Mullenhauer, master and lecturer of Ulster County Pomona Grange.

Master Mullenhaurer spoke on the advantages of children being employed at part time and light farm work as part of a plan to enable them to have some personal income, to take up some of their spare time, and as a method of combatting juvenile delinquency.

Twenty-seven members arrived in a chartered bus.

LAKE KATRINE GRANGE—Asbury Degree team will attend meeting at Lake Katrine Monday, to assist with ritualistic work when first and second degrees will be conferred on number of candidates. Next card party, Tuesday, March 29 in Grange Hall. Past Master's pin ceremonies at last meeting. Dartball teams played at Ulster Park, Tuesday.

HURLEY GRANGE — Mrs. Belle Dunbar, county chairman of cerebral palsy and Mrs. Charlotte Peck, director of the cerebral palsy center in Kingston were guests of the Grange Thursday evening. Mrs. Peck explained the work of the center and the aid given area residents. A movie on cerebral palsy entitled, Upstream, was shown by Ernest Myer. A dance will be held by the Grange March 26 and the proceeds will be given to the cerebral palsy fund.

Mrs. Dorothy Palen, chairman of service and hospitality, announced the cookie contest will be held March 24. Get well cards were sent to Thomas Newkirk and Mrs. Benson Krom Sr. The service and hospitality committee donated $2 to the Susan Freestone Fund and $1 to the Reforestation Program. The Grange donated $10 to the 4-H toward their camp. Master Andrew Lehtonen reported that so far 228 labor hours have been donated on the firehall project and that the work is progressing nicely. Fifty-six dozen pads have been turned over to the Cancer Society. Hosts and hostess for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Goetchius and Gilbert Cole.

The square dance team comprised of Mimi Basch, Mary Jane Stenson, Athena Snyder, Janet Lockwood, Wayne Gilbert, Arthur Harder, Stanton Warren, Jr. and Jansen Lockwood won the square dance contest sponsored by the Youth Committee and held at Stone Ridge Grange Hall, Saturday night.

Dorothy Parsons, Onteora Junior, To Girls' State

The Guidance Department of the Onteora Central School announced today Dorothy Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parsons, West Shokan, was selected by a ballot of the faculty as the junior girl representative to Girls' State.

Doris Juliano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Juliano, West Shokan, was selcted as alternate. The selection of these girls is jointly sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliaries of the Towns of Shandaken and Olive.

The basis of selection of the girls to represent the Onteora School District was changed this year. The Legion auxiliaries agreed the selection of the girl to represent them could come from any part of the central district; the central district takes in areas in six towns and two counties. Miss Parson's selection was made on a district wide basis.

Miss Parsons participates in intramural athletics, is co-captain of the Marshall squad and junior apprentice of the yearbook, The Album. Miss Juliano participates in intramural athletics, is a member of the Marshall squad, junior apprentice of the yearbook, alternate for Student Council and circulation manager of the school newspaper, The Onteorator.

A BROKEN NO-PRESENTS PACT

A young woman tells me: "A friend and I decided to eliminate the exchanging of birthday presents this year. So when her birthday came along I merely sent her a birthday card and that was all. My birthday was yesterday and in walked my friend with a present for me. I was very much embarrassed and when I told her that I thought we agreed not to exchange birthday presents this year, she said it was just a little something to say thank you for the many favors I had done for her. Should I accept this present or not, and if so, would it be proper for me to send her a belated birthday present in return?"

I think your friend was very unfair to you by ignoring your agreement, but there is nothing for you to do now but thank her appreciatively and let it go at that. To send her a belated birthday present will merely put you back where you were.

Concerning a Christening Present

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband has been asked to serve as godfather to a friend's child. I am invited to the christening, of course, but not to take part. Should the silver cup be engraved just from my husband or to include me too? Or am I supposed to give a little something extra?

Answer: The cup is from—and should be marked from — the godfather alone. But no additional present from you is necessary.

Each Bridesmaid in Different Color

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be possible for my four bridesmaids to be dressed alike in point of style, but each one in a different color? The girls like the idea very much because in this small town they won't have identical dresses to wear after the wedding.

Answer: If the colors are chosen to go well together they would be quite all right. In fact, the description of bridesmaids wearing "rainbow colors" is not unknown.

How are godparents chosen? What is their obligation? These and other questions are answered in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-36, "The New Baby." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, care of the Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Dr. Herbert Johnson Appeals for Donors For Reading Clinic

Dr. Herbert Johnson appealed for donors to establish a Mid-Hudson children's remedial clinic at the meeting of Junior Married Women's Club at the YWCA Thursday evening.

The guest speaker said that the individual problems of reading could be handled on a completely individual basis with the proper staff. He said that one teacher, one expert and a minimum of equipment would be a beginning. The problem is a real one according to Dr. Johnson, since from ten to fifteen per cent of all school children read below grade level.

Following the program, a social hour was held. The hostesses were Mmes. Thomas Maines, William Gaffken, William Hughes, Arthur Hansen, Frank Kilmer and Joseph Senor. The club will hold a card party April 21, it was announced at the business meeting.

Ulster Project Bid Is Made

One minor Ulster county project was among 23 bid on yesterday in the office of the state public works department in Albany.

Arrowhead Contracting Corp., of New York city, bid $2,275 for painting the water tower of the colony farm at the Napanoch Institute for Male Defective Delinquents.

Bids on the 23 projects in various parts of the state totalled $6,727,898, and the largest of these was $4,693,000 by the R. D. Rich Co., Inc., Stamford, Conn., for construction work on the Medical-Surgical Building, Marcy State Hospital in Oneida county. Bids for other work on that structure were also opened.

Whitney-Dierks Heating Corp., of Poughkeepsie, was the lowest of seven bidders for heating work in the hospital at $608,363.

Cases Announced Settled in Court

Among the cases announced settled in Supreme Court are:

No. 332, Jennie Spada against Jordan Taylor and Joseph L. Diamond, negligence. Charles Gaffney for plaintiff and Donald Gulling, Jr., for Taylor and Cook and Cook for Diamond.

No. 333, Louis Sapp against Arthur H. Bittner and another, negligence. Charles H. Gaffney for plaintiff and Cook and Cook for defendants.

No. 512, Marie Grimaldi against Jordan Taylor, negligence, arising out of an accident near the Rondout creek bridge. Charles H. Gaffney for plaintiff and Donald Gulling, Jr., for defendant.

House Asks . . .

323,100 and given $417,792,900, an increase of about 25 million dollars over current year funds.

Department of Health, Education and Labor: Cut $42,062,500 and given $1,907,403,361, a reduction of about 119 millions from current year funds.

National Labor Relations Board: Cut $150,000 from its request for $8,150,000.

National Mediation Board: Given the entire $1,187,000 it requested.

FEDERAL MEDIATION and Conciliation Service: Cut $86,000 and given $3,134,000.

Interstate Commission on the Potomac Basin: Its request for $10,000 was cut in half.

All requests by the Labor and Welfare Departments for money for civil defense and defense mobilization activities were turned down. The Labor Department had sought $300,000, and Welfare $1,600,000 for this work. The committee said the program is too scattered and "piecemeal consideration" of appropriations would result in waste and confusion. It ordered the civil defense administration and the office of defense mobilization to present a budget for "an integrated program."

Snowstorm Hits

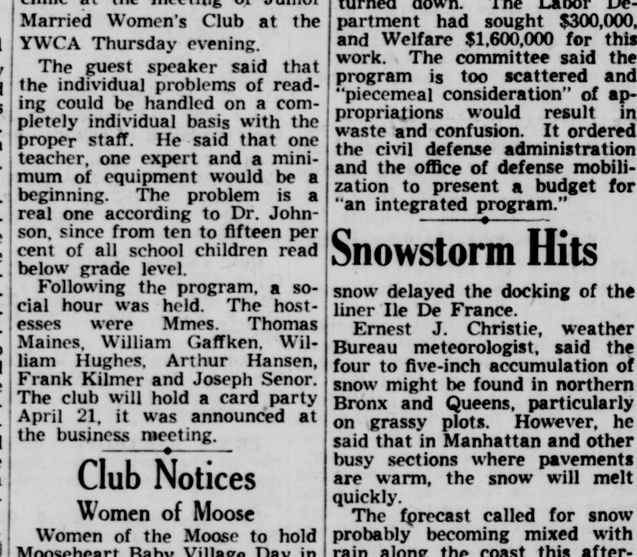

snow delayed the docking of the liner Ile De France.

Ernest J. Christie, weather Bureau meteorologist, said the four to five-inch accumulation of snow might be found in northern Bronx and Queens, particularly on grassy plots. However, he said that in Manhattan and other busy sections where pavements are warm, the snow will melt quickly.

The forecast called for snow probably becoming mixed with rain along the coast this afternoon and ending tonight. The highest temperature predicted for today was 35 degrees.

Nothing So Disgraceful

Montreal, March 18 (AP)—General Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings said today that "in my 38 years of hockey I've never seen anything so disgraceful" as the Montreal hockey riot last night. "Nowhere but in Montreal could there be such a demonstration as this against the league president," he added as he and his club boarded a train for home. The Red Wings were awarded a forfeit victory over the Montreal Canadiens after the riot erupted.

NEW PRESIDENT TAKES OVER—Richard B. Talleur (left) of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., elected to the presidency of the Industrial Management Club of Kingston, receives well wishes from David C. Other officers of the club, elected with President Talleur, are: Gordon Craig, Jr., Electrol Incorporated, first vice president; Frank Donohue, Sprague Electric Co., second vice president; William Quirk, Old Capital Motors, treasurer; George R. Anderson, Hercules Powder Co., Port Ewen, recording secretary; Lou Schaffer, YMCA, executive secretary; J. Frederick Scott, Hercules Powder Co., and Russell Maurer, Forst Packing Co., directors.

Dr. McGrath New Police Dentist

Dr. Stephen T. McGrath was appointed surgeon-dentist of the local police department at a meeting of the police board yesterday.

The police department, for years, has had designated police physicians, but yesterday's action was the first to name a dentist.

Two letters of commendation were also read at the session, one of them thanking Police Chief Raymond Van Buren and the department for cooperation in felling a large tree at Fair and Main streets, and the other, strangely enough, was a "thank-you" from a man who was caught in a traffic violation.

Arboreal Associates of Harriman, specialists in tree care, wrote to the chief:

"THE VERY FINE cooperation which you extended when the large elm was topped and felled for the Old Dutch Church is greatly appreciated.

"Without this help the cost to the church would have been many times what it was, and traffic would have been interfered with for a number of days. Your help made it a speedy, efficient operation.

Charles E. Greenwood, of Schenectady wrote:

"Enclosed is $5 for a driving violation, which I am guilty of on March 11, 1955.

"I WISH TO commend the officer who gave me this ticket, on not being sarcastic or rude. He was on his toes, and did a wonderful job. As I have already stated, I am guilty, but as a suggestion as to where the traffic light was. I did not see it, but I was told that it was on the corner of the street. My suggestion would be to place it in the center of the street. The light that I passed was on the corner of Broadway and O'Reilly street. I think it would help future motorists, if it were placed in the center of the street."

The arrest was made by Officer Floyd Krom.

Chief VanBuren's report to the board showed 27 persons injured in 18 traffic mishaps, and 52 arrests made in February.

OF THE ACCIDENT injuries, 22 persons were hurt in mishaps involving two or more motor vehicles, three were pedestrians, and two were hurt when vehicles ran off roadways.

Of the 52 arrests, 26 were for public intoxication, seven for disorderly conduct, four for driving while intoxicated, two for first degree grand larceny, three each for violations of the city traffic code and the vehicle and traffic law, two for third degree assault, and one for third degree burglary.

The report showed 10 committed to jail, seven fined, 21 given suspended sentences, two cases withdrawn and three referred to the grand jury.

Automotive Firms School Officials Given Certificates

Certificates of commendation were presented by the Automobile Club of New York yesterday to Tillson Public Adult School, Glasco Union Free Adult School, and Emma Wygant Adult School and to Martin-Moran, Inc., in recognition of outstanding service to the community through their participation in the adult driver education program.

Also to receive the certificate of commendation was Old Capital Motors, Inc., and Bev Anderson Chevrolet for their part in the program.

EDWARD J. CAPILLO, assistant safety director of the auto club presented the blue and white parchment certificates to George Fernandez, principal of Tillson school; Patrick Buonfiglio, principal of Glasco school; Miss Theresa DeWitt of Emma Wygant school; and Frank Moran, president of Martin-Moran, Inc. Bev. Anderson, of Bev Anderson Chevrolet, Inc., and George N. Shivery of Old Capital Motors, received their certificates from Edward J. Reiger, for six-year participation in the program, through supplying dual control cars for the school driver education program.

The certificate commends the dealer for making an "important civic contribution to traffic safety and the reduction of accidents on the highway."

The high school driver education program, pioneered by the AAA since 1936, offers both behind-the-wheel and classroom instruction to teen-agers. This year, more than 6,900 high schools in the country are training more than 393,000 students.

Goes to Gettysburg

Washington, March 18 (AP)—President Eisenhower arranged to join his wife at Gettysburg, Pa., today for an overnight stay at their new home. The Chief Executive scheduled his departure for about noon on the 85-mile drive. The first lady and her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, motored to the new country place yesterday afternoon and spent the night there. It was Mrs. Eisenhower's first venture outdoors since she came down with the flu early last week—and the first time she had slept in her new home. The President spent his first night in the house two weeks ago before workmen had quite completed the interior. Eisenhower plans to drive back to Washington tomorrow to attend the annual dinner of the White House News Photographers Assn.

Will Use Discretion

New York, March 18 (AP)—William Jansen, superintendent of schools, says he will use his discretion on a city board of education ruling that ex-Communist teachers must divulge to him names of party associates or face losing their jobs. The board vote on the issue yesterday was 7-1. One board member was absent. After the vote, Jansen said that since he was "authorized" and not "directed" to require disclosures, he could use his discretion as to when to institute charges.

Dr. Herbert Johnson Appeals for Donors For Reading Clinic

Dr. Herbert Johnson appealed for donors to establish a Mid-Hudson children's remedial clinic at the meeting of Junior Married Women's Club at the YWCA Thursday evening.

The guest speaker said that the individual problems of reading could be handled on a completely individual basis with the proper staff. He said that one teacher, one expert and a minimum of equipment would be a beginning. The problem is a real one according to Dr. Johnson, since from ten to fifteen per cent of all school children read below grade level.

Following the program, a social hour was held. The hostesses were Mmes. Thomas Maines, William Gaffken, William Hughes, Arthur Hansen, Frank Kilmer and Joseph Senor. The club will hold a card party April 21, it was announced at the business meeting.

Ulster Project Bid Is Made

One minor Ulster county project was among 23 bid on yesterday in the office of the state public works department in Albany.

Arrowhead Contracting Corp., of New York city, bid $2,275 for painting the water tower of the colony farm at the Napanoch Institute for Male Defective Delinquents.

Bids on the 23 projects in various parts of the state totalled $6,727,898, and the largest of these was $4,693,000 by the R. D. Rich Co., Inc., Stamford, Conn., for construction work on the Medical-Surgical Building, Marcy State Hospital in Oneida county. Bids for other work on that structure were also opened.

Whitney-Dierks Heating Corp., of Poughkeepsie, was the lowest of seven bidders for heating work in the hospital at $608,363.

323,100 and given $417,792,900, an increase of about 25 million dollars over current year funds.

Department of Health, Education and Labor: Cut $42,062,500 and given $1,907,403,361, a reduction of about 119 millions from current year funds.

National Labor Relations Board: Cut $150,000 from its request for $8,150,000.

National Mediation Board: Given the entire $1,187,000 it requested.

FEDERAL MEDIATION and Conciliation Service: Cut $86,000 and given $3,134,000.

Interstate Commission on the Potomac Basin: Its request for $10,000 was cut in half.

All requests by the Labor and Welfare Departments for money for civil defense and defense mobilization activities were turned down. The Labor Department had sought $300,000, and Welfare $1,600,000 for this work. The committee said the program is too scattered and "piecemeal consideration" of appropriations would result in waste and confusion. It ordered the civil defense administration and the office of defense mobilization to present a budget for "an integrated program."

Snowstorm Hits

snow delayed the docking of the liner Ile De France.

Ernest J. Christie, weather Bureau meteorologist, said the four to five-inch accumulation of snow might be found in northern Bronx and Queens, particularly on grassy plots. However, he said that in Manhattan and other busy sections where pavements are warm, the snow will melt quickly.

The forecast called for snow probably becoming mixed with rain along the coast this afternoon and ending tonight. The highest temperature predicted for today was 35 degrees.

Nothing So Disgraceful

Montreal, March 18 (AP)—General Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings said today that "in my 38 years of hockey I've never seen anything so disgraceful" as the Montreal hockey riot last night. "Nowhere but in Montreal could there be such a demonstration as this against the league president," he added as he and his club boarded a train for home. The Red Wings were awarded a forfeit victory over the Montreal Canadiens after the riot erupted.

Dr. McGrath New Police Dentist

Dr. Stephen T. McGrath was appointed surgeon-dentist of the local police department at a meeting of the police board yesterday.

The police department, for years, has had designated police physicians, but yesterday's action was the first to name a dentist.

Two letters of commendation were also read at the session, one of them thanking Police Chief Raymond Van Buren and the department for cooperation in felling a large tree at Fair and Main streets, and the other, strangely enough, was a "thank-you" from a man who was caught in a traffic violation.

Arboreal Associates of Harriman, specialists in tree care, wrote to the chief:

"THE VERY FINE cooperation which you extended when the large elm was topped and felled for the Old Dutch Church is greatly appreciated.

"Without this help the cost to the church would have been many times what it was, and traffic would have been interfered with for a number of days. Your help made it a speedy, efficient operation.

Charles E. Greenwood, of Schenectady wrote:

"Enclosed is $5 for a driving violation, which I am guilty of on March 11, 1955.

"I WISH TO commend the officer who gave me this ticket, on not being sarcastic or rude. He was on his toes, and did a wonderful job. As I have already stated, I am guilty, but as a suggestion as to where the traffic light was. I did not see it, but I was told that it was on the corner of the street. My suggestion would be to place it in the center of the street. The light that I passed was on the corner of Broadway and O'Reilly street. I think it would help future motorists, if it were placed in the center of the street."

The arrest was made by Officer Floyd Krom.

Chief VanBuren's report to the board showed 27 persons injured in 18 traffic mishaps, and 52 arrests made in February.

OF THE ACCIDENT injuries, 22 persons were hurt in mishaps involving two or more motor vehicles, three were pedestrians, and two were hurt when vehicles ran off roadways.

Of the 52 arrests, 26 were for public intoxication, seven for disorderly conduct, four for driving while intoxicated, two for first degree grand larceny, three each for violations of the city traffic code and the vehicle and traffic law, two for third degree assault, and one for third degree burglary.

The report showed 10 committed to jail, seven fined, 21 given suspended sentences, two cases withdrawn and three referred to the grand jury.

Automotive Firms' School Officials Given Certificates

Certificates of commendation were presented by the Automobile Club of New York yesterday to Tillson Public Adult School, Glasco Union Free Adult School, and Emma Wygant Adult School and to Martin-Moran, Inc., in recognition of outstanding service to the community through their participation in the adult driver education program.

Also to receive the certificate of commendation was Old Capital Motors, Inc., and Bev Anderson Chevrolet for their part in the program.

EDWARD J. CAPILLO, assistant safety director of the auto club presented the blue and white parchment certificates to George Fernandez, principal of Tillson school; Patrick Buonfiglio, principal of Glasco school; Miss Theresa DeWitt of Emma Wygant school; and Frank Moran, president of Martin-Moran, Inc. Bev. Anderson, of Bev Anderson Chevrolet, Inc., and George N. Shivery of Old Capital Motors, received their certificates from Edward J. Reiger, for six-year participation in the program, through supplying dual control cars for the school driver education program.

The certificate commends the dealer for making an "important civic contribution to traffic safety and the reduction of accidents on the highway."

The high school driver education program, pioneered by the AAA since 1936, offers both behind-the-wheel and classroom instruction to teen-agers. This year, more than 6,900 high schools in the country are training more than 393,000 students.

Goes to Gettysburg

Washington, March 18 (AP)—President Eisenhower arranged to join his wife at Gettysburg, Pa., today for an overnight stay at their new home. The Chief Executive scheduled his departure for about noon on the 85-mile drive. The first lady and her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, motored to the new country place yesterday afternoon and spent the night there. It was Mrs. Eisenhower's first venture outdoors since she came down with the flu early last week—and the first time she had slept in her new home. The President spent his first night in the house two weeks ago before workmen had quite completed the interior. Eisenhower plans to drive back to Washington tomorrow to attend the annual dinner of the White House News Photographers Assn.

Will Use Discretion

New York, March 18 (AP)—William Jansen, superintendent of schools, says he will use his discretion on a city board of education ruling that ex-Communist teachers must divulge to him names of party associates or face losing their jobs. The board vote on the issue yesterday was 7-1. One board member was absent. After the vote, Jansen said that since he was "authorized" and not "directed" to require disclosures, he could use his discretion as to when to institute charges.

Empire Diner and Cornwall Win Openers in City Cage Tourney

Kaplan Nets 21; Team Cops 93-56

Empire Diner served notice on the rest of the teams in the second annual Kingston Basketball Tournament Thursday night that it will be a tough contender for the title.

That much was for sure after the Diner quintet rolled up a staggering 93 to 56 victory over the strong Cairo Legion five at municipal auditorium in the curtain-raiser of this year's post-season competition.

Empire Diner is now carded to tangle with Lincoln Center of Poughkeepsie on Thursday, March 31.

Cornwall also advanced with a 57 to 37 triumph over the Pawling AC, after jumping off to an early lead.

TOURNAMENT ACTION resumes next Tuesday night with the Affron Oilers and Valley Gardens in the 7:30 slot and the Monticello Vets and Wappingers Crusaders meeting at 8:30 o'clock.

Jerry Kaplan, who has been a big scorer in local YMCA action throughout the current court campaign, resumed that role again last night by firing 21 points' 20 on field shots and one from the charity stripe.

Jack Doyle, who turned in a good game, both on rebounding and scoring, followed Kaplan with 19. DuBois gleaned 13 and Tom Fleming 10 to complete the double figure scorers.

Empire moved out in front with a commanding 26 to 9 edge at the first quarter and upped its lead to 53-25 at halftime. ..

Cairo only trailed the local quintet by a single point, 19-18 in the third quarter scoring but by that time the die was already cast. Empire Diner finished with a 21-13 bulge in the final canto.

PAWLING threw all of its reserve into the first half of play in its game with Cornwall but fell apart in the last two periods, scoring only 10 points.

Pawling led in the first period, 14-10 and at halftime by 27 to 22.

Cornwall turned on the steam in the final two chukkers, hopping off to a 38-33 lead in the third period.

B. Cooney sparked Cornwall with 18 points and J. Conney canned 12. Glassman chipped in with 11.

Cunningham topped the Pawling quintet with 13 points.

Katrine Club To Vote Sunday On Land Sale

Stockholders and members of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club will meet Sunday, March 20, at 8 p. m. to take action on a proposition to sell and convey 16½ acres of land on their present grounds.

Roland Post, president, in making the announcement this morning, urged a full attendance of both stockholders and members at Sunday's special meeting to vote on the proposition.

Argentina Tops U. S. Five, 54-53

Mexico City, March 18 (AP)—Argentina led the Pan American basketball tournament today, victor over a United States team that was supposed to take the championship with comparative ease.

The Gauchos, led by that veteran of Olympic basketball, lean Oscar Furlong, beat the United States 54-53 las night.

It was a great game, one that had a crowd of 10,000 in pandemonium. Argentina led virtually all the way, once being ahead by 13 points, but the Americans closed in down the stretch and with 59 seconds left the score was tied 53-53.

ARGENTINA had the ball and was working in toward the U. S. goal looking for an opening, suddenly Roberto Viau cut for the basket and shot. Alva Wilfong of the U. S. went for the ball but bumped into Viau. The official ruled a foul.

Viau, visibly affected and showing the strain of so much being pinned to his shoulders, took his first free throw. It was short. He smiled at his teammates, however, and raised a hand of reassurance, then he plunked his second free throw squarely through the basket and Argentina had won its greatest basketball victory.

Old Capitals Rap 2641 in J-A Play

Old Capital Motors shot a 2641 gross score in the Journal American Tournament, with Ann Mauro leading with 468.

The team had a 2059 net plus a 582 pin handicap for its 2641 gross.

June Van Kleeck rolled a 605 gross in the singles and Ann Mauro led the locals with a 596 gross score in the doubles. Arlene Raible had 588 and June Van Kleeck 586 in the doubles competition.

Nats Count on 'Big Guys' For First Division Berth

(By The Associated Press)

While some baseball clubs strive toward winning pennants, the Washington Senators would be content to wind up in the first division—which is what Manager Chuck Dressen is pointing for in 1955.

Not since 1946 has Washington finished among the top four clubs in the American League. The Nats were fourth that year and in 1950, '52 and '53 they came close with fifth place finishes. Since they won their last pennant in 1933, the Senators have been in the elusive first division only five times.

DRESSEN, WHO led the Brooklyn Dodgers to two straight National League flags in 1952 and 1953, has his Nats riding atop the Grapefruit and Cactus League standings today with a 4-2 won-lost record.

"Our goal is to finish in the first division," says Dressen. "With luck we may finish as high as third.

"It's still too early to give a fair evaluation of the club," Dressen admitted. Based on what he's seen, the Nats' freshmen skipper thinks his club has a chance to finish among the four top teams provided the "big guys don't get hurt."

By the "big guys," Chuck meant first baseman Mickey Vernon, outfielder Jim Busby and third baseman Eddie Yost. He also regards pitching as the strongest part of his team.

YOST HOMERED to start the bottom half of the first inning yesterday and the Senators went on to defeat the Cincinnati Redlegs 6-4 for their fourth straight victory of the exhibition season.

The Boston Red Sox broke a three-game losing streak by whipping Milwaukee Braves 8-5 as Billy Goodman collected three hits and batted in three runs. Russ Kemmerer, first Boston pitcher to go four innings, was the winner.

The New York Yankees turned back the St. Louis Cards 7-4, getting three earned runs in the eighth inning to snap a 4-4 tie. Hank Baurer of the Yanks and Alex Grammas and Hal Smith of the Red Birds belted homers.

THE KANSAS CITY Athletics received effective pitching from Art Ditmar and Marion Fricano to down the Chicago White Sox 8-2. Bob Nieman of the Sox produced four hits, including a double and a triple.

Chico Fernandez' error on Gus Triandos' doubleplay grounder let the winning run score as the Baltimore Orioles nosed out the Brooklyn Dodgers 5-4 in 10 innings.

In another extra-inning game, the Chicago Cubs outlasted the Cleveland Indians 8-7 in 11 frames.

Outfielder Frank Thomas signed his contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates, receiving a reported $18,000. Holdout Bobby Avila said he expected to come to terms with the Cleveland Indians within a few days.

60 Wreck Par

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Par busters were a dime a dozen today as a red-hot field of 149 pros and amateurs teed off in the second round of the $12,500 St. Petersburg Open golf tournament. With big John Barnum, veteran from Grand Rapids, Mich., and Doug Higgins, a loose, lanky newcomer from Midland, Tex., setting the pace, 60 players wrecked par in yesterday's first swing around the lengthy Lakewood Country Club course.

AP Survey Shows Decided Decrease In Ring Interest

(By The Associated Press)

Interest in boxing generally has decreased in 23 states during the last five years, irrespective of televised bouts, a nationwide survey of The Associated Press disclosed today.

Without going into specific details, reports from 48 states and the District of Columbia seem to bear out the claim that widespread televising of fights has put a big majority of small fight clubs out of business.

IOWA IS the only state where boxing is illegal by law.

The AP survey concerned boxing as a professional sport, and many areas which reported little interest modified this by observing that it did not include TV bouts or Golden Gloves and other amateur fisticuffs. TV interest seems as strong as ever.

Seventeen states described boxing as "inactive." Eight said it was "very inactive," and four labeled it "dead." The sport was termed average in 16 states, and very active in four—Michigan, New York, Illinois and Florida.

Furgol Offers Tips on Golf

TESTING—When you step in sand, dig your feet in for a firm footing—and test its consistency, Ed Furgol advises. (NEA)

(Second of Five Articles)

By ED FURGOL

(Written for NEA Service)

When your ball rests in a sand trap, test the sand's consistency by digging your feet in for a firm footing.

The softer the sand and the shorter the shot, the further behind the ball you must hit. Play an open stance, well behind the ball. Be sure left foot is firmly planted. Keep head down and don't turn wrists over after hitting ball.

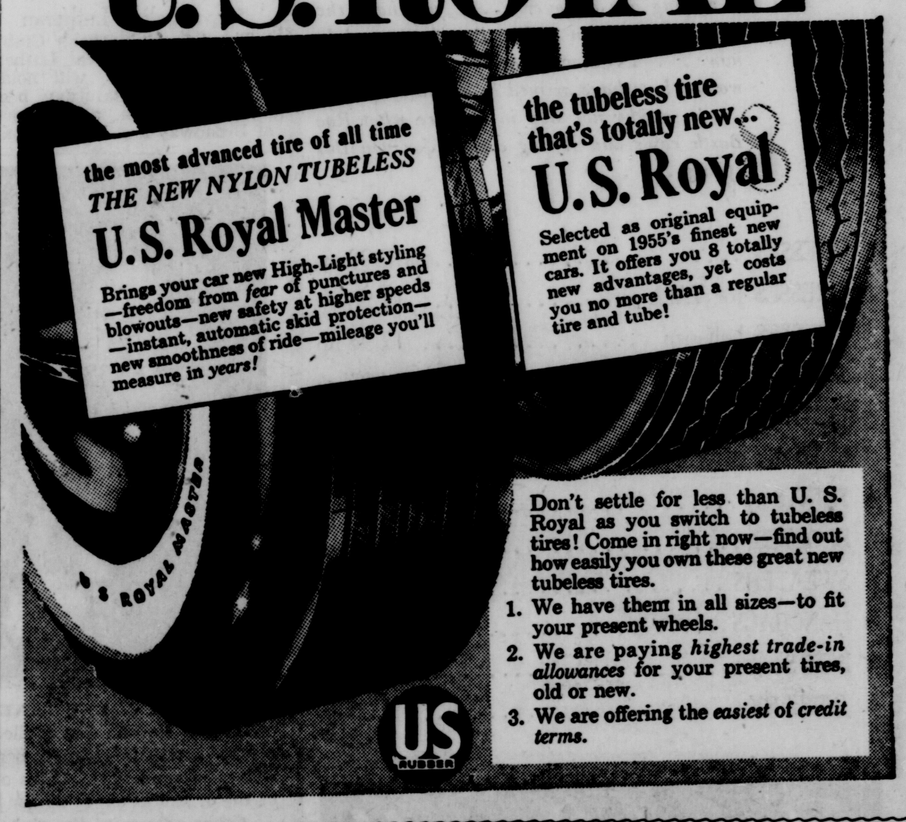

When the sand is wet or hard, hit closer behind the ball.

After striking the ball, concentrate on keeping club open and square to the hole.

Empire Diner and Cornwall Win Openers in City Cage Tourney

Kaplan Nets 21; Team Cops 93-56

Empire Diner served notice on the rest of the teams in the second annual Kingston Basketball Tournament Thursday night that it will be a tough contender for the title.

That much was for sure after the Diner quintet rolled up a staggering 93 to 56 victory over the strong Cairo Legion five at municipal auditorium in the curtain-raiser of this year's post-season competition.

Empire Diner is now carded to tangle with Lincoln Center of Poughkeepsie on Thursday, March 31.

Cornwall also advanced with a 57 to 37 triumph over the Pawling AC, after jumping off to an early lead.

TOURNAMENT ACTION resumes next Tuesday night with the Affron Oilers and Valley Gardens in the 7:30 slot and the Monticello Vets and Wappingers Crusaders meeting at 8:30 o'clock.

Jerry Kaplan, who has been a big scorer in local YMCA action throughout the current court campaign, resumed that role again last night by firing 21 points' 20 on field shots and one from the charity stripe.

Jack Doyle, who turned in a good game, both on rebounding and scoring, followed Kaplan with 19. DuBois gleaned 13 and Tom Fleming 10 to complete the double figure scorers.

Empire moved out in front with a commanding 26 to 9 edge at the first quarter and upped its lead to 53-25 at halftime.

Cairo only trailed the local quintet by a single point, 19-18 in the third quarter scoring but by that time the die was already cast. Empire Diner finished with a 21-13 bulge in the final canto.

PAWLING threw all of its reserve into the first half of play in its game with Cornwall but fell apart in the last two periods, scoring only 10 points.

Pawling led in the first period, 14-10 and at halftime by 27 to 22.

Cornwall turned on the steam in the final two chukkers, hopping off to a 38-33 lead in the third period.

B. Cooney sparked Cornwall with 18 points and J. Conney canned 12. Glassman chipped in with 11.

Cunningham topped the Pawling quintet with 13 points.

Argentina Tops U. S. Five, 54-53

Mexico City, March 18 (AP)—Argentina led the Pan American basketball tournament today, victor over a United States team that was supposed to take the championship with comparative ease.

The Gauchos, led by that veteran of Olympic basketball, lean Oscar Furlong, beat the United States 54-53 las night.

It was a great game, one that had a crowd of 10,000 in pandemonium. Argentina led virtually all the way, once being ahead by 13 points, but the Americans closed in down the stretch and with 59 seconds left the score was tied 53-53.

ARGENTINA had the ball and was working in toward the U. S. goal looking for an opening, suddenly Roberto Viau cut for the basket and shot. Alva Wilfong of the U. S. went for the ball but bumped into Viau. The official ruled a foul.

Viau, visibly affected and showing the strain of so much being pinned to his shoulders, took his first free throw. It was short. He smiled at his teammates, however, and raised a hand of reassurance, then he plunked his second free throw squarely through the basket and Argentina had won its greatest basketball victory.

Nats Count on 'Big Guys' For First Division Berth

(By The Associated Press)

While some baseball clubs strive toward winning pennants, the Washington Senators would be content to wind up in the first division—which is what Manager Chuck Dressen is pointing for in 1955.

Not since 1946 has Washington finished among the top four clubs in the American League. The Nats were fourth that year and in 1950, '52 and '53 they came close with fifth place finishes. Since they won their last pennant in 1933, the Senators have been in the elusive first division only five times.

DRESSEN, WHO led the Brooklyn Dodgers to two straight National League flags in 1952 and 1953, has his Nats riding atop the Grapefruit and Cactus League standings today with a 4-2 won-lost record.

"Our goal is to finish in the first division," says Dressen. "With luck we may finish as high as third.

"It's still too early to give a fair evaluation of the club," Dressen admitted. Based on what he's seen, the Nats' freshmen skipper thinks his club has a chance to finish among the four top teams provided the "big guys don't get hurt."

By the "big guys," Chuck meant first baseman Mickey Vernon, outfielder Jim Busby and third baseman Eddie Yost. He also regards pitching as the strongest part of his team.

YOST HOMERED to start the bottom half of the first inning yesterday and the Senators went on to defeat the Cincinnati Redlegs 6-4 for their fourth straight victory of the exhibition season.

The Boston Red Sox broke a three-game losing streak by whipping Milwaukee Braves 8-5 as Billy Goodman collected three hits and batted in three runs. Russ Kemmerer, first Boston pitcher to go four innings, was the winner.

The New York Yankees turned back the St. Louis Cards 7-4, getting three earned runs in the eighth inning to snap a 4-4 tie. Hank Baurer of the Yanks and Alex Grammas and Hal Smith of the Red Birds belted homers.

THE KANSAS CITY Athletics received effective pitching from Art Ditmar and Marion Fricano to down the Chicago White Sox 8-2. Bob Nieman of the Sox produced four hits, including a double and a triple.

Chico Fernandez' error on Gus Triandos' doubleplay grounder let the winning run score as the Baltimore Orioles nosed out the Brooklyn Dodgers 5-4 in 10 innings.

In another extra-inning game, the Chicago Cubs outlasted the Cleveland Indians 8-7 in 11 frames.

Outfielder Frank Thomas signed his contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates, receiving a reported $18,000. Holdout Bobby Avila said he expected to come to terms with the Cleveland Indians within a few days.

60 Wreck Par

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Par busters were a dime a dozen today as a red-hot field of 149 pros and amateurs teed off in the second round of the $12,500 St. Petersburg Open golf tournament. With big John Barnum, veteran from Grand Rapids, Mich., and Doug Higgins, a loose, lanky newcomer from Midland, Tex., setting the pace, 60 players wrecked par in yesterday's first swing around the lengthy Lakewood Country Club course.

AP Survey Shows Decided Decrease In Ring Interest

(By The Associated Press)

Interest in boxing generally has decreased in 23 states during the last five years, irrespective of televised bouts, a nationwide survey of The Associated Press disclosed today.

Without going into specific details, reports from 48 states and the District of Columbia seem to bear out the claim that widespread televising of fights has put a big majority of small fight clubs out of business.

IOWA IS the only state where boxing is illegal by law.

The AP survey concerned boxing as a professional sport, and many areas which reported little interest modified this by observing that it did not include TV bouts or Golden Gloves and other amateur fisticuffs. TV interest seems as strong as ever.

Seventeen states described boxing as "inactive." Eight said it was "very inactive," and four labeled it "dead." The sport was termed average in 16 states, and very active in four—Michigan, New York, Illinois and Florida.

Chernys Turn Back Redleg Five Again

Cherny Brothers made it two straight over the Redlegs, 36 to 10, in a game at the MJM Gym Wednesday.

The Cates, meanwhile, triumphed over the Basketeers, 30 to 11.

L. Carr was top scorer of the doubleheader with 14 points for Cherneys. A. Cherney had 12 and Kantrowitz 10. J. and M. Setera were top scorers for the Cates with 13 and 10 in that order.

The scores:

CHERNY'S (36)—A. Cherny 6-0-12; L. Carr 6-2-14; Kantrowitz 4-2-10.

Furgol Offers Tips on Golf

TESTING—When you step in sand, dig your feet in for a firm footing—and test its consistency, Ed Furgol advises. (NEA)

(Second of Five Articles)

By ED FURGOL

(Written for NEA Service)

When your ball rests in a sand trap, test the sand's consistency by digging your feet in for a firm footing.

The softer the sand and the shorter the shot, the further behind the ball you must hit. Play an open stance, well behind the ball. Be sure left foot is firmly planted. Keep head down and don't turn wrists over after hitting ball.

When the sand is wet or hard, hit closer behind the ball.

After striking the ball, concentrate on keeping club open and square to the hole.

Montreal Fans Riot Seven Hours to Protest Richard Suspension

Forfeit Launches Demonstration; 100 Are Arrested

Stores Are Looted. Fires Are Started

Montreal, March 18 (AP) — Thousands of hockey fans went on a seven-hour rampage of destruction and looting last night in the worst demonstration Montreal has seen since the anticonscription riots of World War 2.

The fans, fired to a fury against National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell, smashed windows, looted jewelry stores and beat up innocent bystanders. Their demonstration continued long after a game at the Forum between the Canadiens and Detroit was called off at the end of the first period. Detroit, leading 4-1 when the playing stopped was declared winner of the contest.

The rioting started as a noisy protest against Campbell's action in suspending their idol—Maurice (Rocket) Richard—and grew until streetcar riders and persons walking along busy St. Catherine street cowered in fear of the demonstrators.

PASSENGERS on streetcars, trapped in a traffic jam near the Forum, lay on the floors as chunks of ice and bottles came smashing through windows.

Police estimated they arrested more than 100 persons. Many had their pockets crammed with looted jewelry, police said.

The mob went completely out of control, despite the efforts of hundreds of police and firemen.

THE MOB TOPPLED some corner newsstands and set fire to others. Windows of more than 50 stores were smashed and a number of cars were overturned. Many people were injured, but none seriously.

Inside the forum, there was hysteria as a fan tossed a teargas bomb into a passageway near the entrance, sending spectators choking and coughing through the exits. Forum officials said only the calm of fans in the upper part of the rink, who retained their seats while those near the ice battled their way out, prevented a major disaster.

CAMPBELL, OBJECT of the fury, was punched twice in the face by one fan and buried under an avalanche of overshoes, peanuts, programs, eggs, tomatoes and pennies. Campbell said later he was unhurt.

The demonstration started innocently enough. Hundreds of fans jammed the lobby of the forum two hours before game time but they seemed in a jovial mood. But when the game got underway and the efforts of those without tickets to crash the gates were repulsed by police they became surly.

They assembled in a park at Atwater and St. Catherine street, directly opposite the rink, and started pelting street-cars with chunks of ice.

Campbell's arrival midway through the first period touched off the demonstration inside by many of the 14,000 fans. He took it smilingly, as if he had expected it after setting down Richard for the rest of the season and the Stanley playoffs for a stick-swinging episode in Boston Sunday.

AFTER A TIME, the demonstration subsided, but when the period ended with Detroit ahead 4-1 the spectators renewed the barrage.

Fire Director Armand Pare ordered the game suspended, "for the protection of the fans." The order meant the contest was automatically forfeited to the Red Wings and moved them into undisputed possession of first place in the league.

The cancellation only seemed to increase the ire of the fans, who milled around outside for four hours after the order.

'A' DIVISION CHAMPIONS—Harry's Angels, the newly-crowned champions of the YMCA "A" Winter League, are slated for post-season action in the Poughkeepsie basketball tournament next Monday and in the Kingston tournament March 24. In Garden Feature

New York, March 18 (AP)—A couple of youngsters who never before have been in a Madison Square Garden main event—Joey Lopes and Carmelo Costa—go at it in the feature 10 in the Eighth avenue arena tonight. Both have impressive records. Lopes was a cautious 6-5 choice after the odds had fluctuated back and forth for two days. They have agreed to come in at 132 pounds, so although Lopes is a lightweight and Costa a featherweight, there will be little difference in poundage. This bout will be telecast and broadcast by NBC, starting at 10 p. m. (EST).

Stokes Steals Show

Duquesne AndDayton In Finals

New York, March 18 (AP)—It's Duquesne and Dayton, as expected, for the National Invitation basketball tournament title tommorrow night, but the fans will be coming back to see Maurice Stokes.

It was Stokes, "the magnificent," who turned half of last night's seemifinals into a Madison Square thriller. All the guy did was take on Dayton virtually singlehanded for litte St. Francis (Pa.), and he almost pulled it off. Dayton had to go into overtime to outlast Stokes and the Frankies 79-73.

TOP-RANKED Duquesne had a terrible night as far as finesee was concerned, but the Dukes didn't need any more than they had to dispose of Cincinnati 65-51. The nightmare isn't over for the fourth-seeded Bearcats. They now have to face St. Francis and Stokes in tomorrow night's third place game.

All of the night's action and suspense was crammed into the 45-minute opener between second-seeded Dayton, with 7-foot Bill Uhl and 6-9 Johnny Horan, and unranked St. Francis, with its 6-6 Stokes.

Stokes had Dayton on the ropes throughout, scoring 43 points and playing like a man and a half under the boards and on defense.

Despite excellent feeds by Stokes, the Frankies missed three layups and had to settle for a 67-67 tie as Dayton sub Carman Riazzi sank a set shot just before the final buzzer.

The overtime was all Dayton as Horan, who finished with 30, and Uhl, who got 20, wrapped it up.

Trabert Meets Flam

Palm Beach, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Second-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati plays third-seeded Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., today in the feature singles match of the Everglades Club Invitational tennis tournament. Trabert gained the semi-finals yesterday with a 6-2, 6-0 victory over Jerry Dewitt of San Francisco while Flam had advanced earlier. Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, seeded No. 1, defeated Dr. Jack Geller of Purchase, N. Y., 7-5, 6-0, to gain the semifinals and will play Tom Brown of San Francisco tomorrow. Finals will be held Sunday.

Head Golf Action

Pinehurst, N. C., March 18 (AP)—The "Battle of the Barbaras," Romack of Sacramento, Calif., the national champion, and McIntire Oftledoan Ohio, headlined today's second round in the 53rd North and South Amateur golf tournament. Miss Romack was defending her North and South title here two years ago when their paths crossed and the Ohio girl eliminated the Californian, 2 up, in the quarterfinals.

National LL To Register

Registration for National Little League players will be held again Saturday from 9:30 until 12 o'clock noon at the Recreation Department, 97 Broadway.

Jimmy DeCicco, LL director, urged all registrants to bring birth certificates.

Palica Is Sold To Baltimore

Vero Beach, Fla., March 18 (AP)—The Dodgers today sold Erv Palica, 27-year-old righthander, to Baltimore for an undisclosed sum of cash and first baseman Frank Kellert. The latter will play for Brooklyn's St. Paul Farm Club.

The Palica sales closes out the Dodger-Oriole deal of last winter when the Brooks sold Preacher Roe and Billy Cox to Baltimore. Roe later retired and was returned to Brooklyn, which placed him on the voluntarily retired list.

LaSalle to Put NCAA Cage Crown On Line Tonight

Kansas City, March 18 (AP)—The La Salle Explorers defend their national collegiate basketball crown against Iowa's Big Ten Champion Hawkeyes tonight in the semifinal round of the 17th NCAA tournament.

Following the La Salle-Iowa opener at 8:45 o'clock (EST) the western delegates-San Francisco and Colorado—will clash.

The Municipal Auditorium Arena is assured of a bulging crowd of more than 10,000 for both the semifinals and tomorrow night's finals.

Coach Ken Loeffler's Explorers who crushed Bradley 92-76 for their first NCAA title here last year, got into the final co-round again by beating West Virginia in the first round at New York, then taking Princeton and Canisius at Philadelphia.

Gulfstream Park's 1954 attendance set a new high of 617,537 for 43 days of racing despite 14 days of rain. Officials of the course expect that figure to be topped during the current season.

'Magic Carpet' Featured By Butler Furniture

For homemakers, a magic carpet would be one that would resist all stains such as those caused by spilled ink, iodine, coffee, food, or even the family puppy, as well as from the ordinary dirt a carpet is bound to collect.

The Butler Furniture Company on Route 28-A in West Hurley, is currently featuring a carpet alleged to have these qualities referred to as a "magic carpet."

Made by C. H. Masland and Sons of Carlisle, Pa., it is aptly named "Saranette" for its velvety pile surface is made of 100 per cent saran yarn—an amazing fabric, according to Heber Butler, owner of the local wayside furniture store.

Ordinary dirt from footprints whisks off with ease, says Mr. Butler, and most stains can be washed off with plain water. If the stains are stubborn, a washday detergent or cleaning fluid can be used.

Session Is Refused

New York, March 18 (AP)—The publisher of the Brooklyn Eagle has turned down a federal mediation session aimed at continuing the 114-year-old daily. Frank H. Brown, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, conferred for two hours yesterday with an official of the CIO American Newspaper Guild, whose 47-day strike against The Eagle prompted its shutdown. Publisher Frank D. Schroth, asked to meet with Brown and Thomas J. Murphy, New York Guild executive vice president, said: "We were asked to meet with the mediation panel but said we would not do it."

At Least 9 Years

Albany, March 18 (AP)—The average man of the 21st century will spend at least nine years in retirement, a joint legislative committee predicts. Nowadays a man "lives longer, works longer and retires longer," the committee said yesterday in its annual report to Gov. Harriman and the Legislature. Sen. Thomas C. Desmond, chairman of the committee on problems of the aging, said that the average man of 1905 spent three years in retirement. Now the average is six years and it will go to nine years by 2005, the Newburgh Republican said.

New Car Price Is Issue At Inquiry Into Stocks

By SAM DAWSON

Washington, March 18 (AP)—The price of that new car you want to buy is an issue today at the senatorial inquiry into the stock market.

At least one senator—Chairman J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.) of the Senate Banking Committee—thinks the factory list price is too high. He asks why auto manufacturers couldn't lower it, especially if the competition among them is as keen as advertised.

And the man who makes the most cars in the country—Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors — insists prices of the new cars, his own and his rivals; are actually set by a highly competitive market.

AUTO COMPANY profits, he contends, come from holding costs below the price the buyer is willing to pay, and from improving methods of producing cars with high customer appeal.

Today's duel between the two men on Capitol Hill is being fought against the dramatic backdrop of more than a year of struggle within the auto industry. During that time mergers for survival cut the six smallest companies down to three. Ford and GM's Chevrolet fought fiercely for top sales position.

The hassle over car prices and over the competition, or lack of it, in the auto industry—at the factory, not the dealer, level—is but one of the side roads down which the Senate committee's stock market study sometimes seems to wander.

GENERAL MOTORS' connection with the stock market, aside from its listing there of 88½ million common shares for trading, is its recent sale to its stockholders of 4,394,256 additional shares for around 325 million dollars.

Inquiring senators see another connection: GM's size and importance in the nation's economy, they say, make its acts a possible influence on price stock trends in general.

Curtice sees the daily influctuations of the stock market as having no effect on GM's plans for expansion or for its stock offering. And he calls the success of GM's recent stock sale proof that there is plenty of investment money around to be tapped if the investor likes the deal.

SEN. FULBRIGHT'S interest in the price of today's cars is tied in with his wondering about the reasons GM's earnings rose last year. He notes one reason given was that the end of the excess profits tax saved the company a lot of money. Fulbright has asked during the inquiry why some of this saving couldn't have been used to lower prices of cars instead of "raising earnings to $9 a share."

The senator has asked also whether the high level of installment credit—auto drivers now owe more than 10 billion dollars in time payments—may prove to be a dancer to the nation's financial health.

Forwarned of the senator's doubts, the GM executive comes armed with arguments even in his prepared opening statement. Curtice sees car prices set—not by a cartel, as Fulbright once hinted—but by the rough and tumble of the most highly competitive market in the industry's history.

AND CURTICE DENIED that GM is playing too rough. He says the only way it "can even stay where it is competitively is to work as aggressively as possible to better its position."

He denies that GM is above competition. If its profit rises to $9 a share, he says, it's because of the GM organization's skill "in converting the same materials into finished products which appeal to more customers at our prices."

We probably won't know until the committee makes its final report whether the auto man has convinced the senator.

Montreal Fans Riot Seven Hours to Protest Richard Suspension

Forfeit Launches Demonstration; 100 Are Arrested

Stores Are Looted. Fires Are Started

Montreal, March 18 (AP) — Thousands of hockey fans went on a seven-hour rampage of destruction and looting last night in the worst demonstration Montreal has seen since the anticonscription riots of World War 2.

The fans, fired to a fury against National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell, smashed windows, looted jewelry stores and beat up innocent bystanders. Their demonstration continued long after a game at the Forum between the Canadiens and Detroit was called off at the end of the first period. Detroit, leading 4-1 when the playing stopped was declared winner of the contest.

The rioting started as a noisy protest against Campbell's action in suspending their idol—Maurice (Rocket) Richard—and grew until streetcar riders and persons walking along busy St. Catherine street cowered in fear of the demonstrators.

PASSENGERS on streetcars, trapped in a traffic jam near the Forum, lay on the floors as chunks of ice and bottles came smashing through windows.

Police estimated they arrested more than 100 persons. Many had their pockets crammed with looted jewelry, police said.

The mob went completely out of control, despite the efforts of hundreds of police and firemen.

THE MOB TOPPLED some corner newsstands and set fire to others. Windows of more than 50 stores were smashed and a number of cars were overturned. Many people were injured, but none seriously.

Inside the forum, there was hysteria as a fan tossed a teargas bomb into a passageway near the entrance, sending spectators choking and coughing through the exits. Forum officials said only the calm of fans in the upper part of the rink, who retained their seats while those near the ice battled their way out, prevented a major disaster.

CAMPBELL, OBJECT of the fury, was punched twice in the face by one fan and buried under an avalanche of overshoes, peanuts, programs, eggs, tomatoes and pennies. Campbell said later he was unhurt.

The demonstration started innocently enough. Hundreds of fans jammed the lobby of the forum two hours before game time but they seemed in a jovial mood. But when the game got underway and the efforts of those without tickets to crash the gates were repulsed by police they became surly.

They assembled in a park at Atwater and St. Catherine street, directly opposite the rink, and started pelting street-cars with chunks of ice.

Campbell's arrival midway through the first period touched off the demonstration inside by many of the 14,000 fans. He took it smilingly, as if he had expected it after setting down Richard for the rest of the season and the Stanley playoffs for a stick-swinging episode in Boston Sunday.

AFTER A TIME, the demonstration subsided, but when the period ended with Detroit ahead 4-1 the spectators renewed the barrage.

Fire Director Armand Pare ordered the game suspended, "for the protection of the fans." The order meant the contest was automatically forfeited to the Red Wings and moved them into undisputed possession of first place in the league.

The cancellation only seemed to increase the ire of the fans, who milled around outside for four hours after the order.

In Garden Feature

New York, March 18 (AP)—A couple of youngsters who never before have been in a Madison Square Garden main event—Joey Lopes and Carmelo Costa—go at it in the feature 10 in the Eighth avenue arena tonight. Both have impressive records. Lopes was a cautious 6-5 choice after the odds had fluctuated back and forth for two days. They have agreed to come in at 132 pounds, so although Lopes is a lightweight and Costa a featherweight, there will be little difference in poundage. This bout will be telecast and broadcast by NBC, starting at 10 p. m. (EST).

Stokes Steals Show

Duquesne AndDayton In Finals

New York, March 18 (AP)—It's Duquesne and Dayton, as expected, for the National Invitation basketball tournament title tommorrow night, but the fans will be coming back to see Maurice Stokes.

It was Stokes, "the magnificent," who turned half of last night's seemifinals into a Madison Square thriller. All the guy did was take on Dayton virtually singlehanded for litte St. Francis (Pa.), and he almost pulled it off. Dayton had to go into overtime to outlast Stokes and the Frankies 79-73.

TOP-RANKED Duquesne had a terrible night as far as finesee was concerned, but the Dukes didn't need any more than they had to dispose of Cincinnati 65-51. The nightmare isn't over for the fourth-seeded Bearcats. They now have to face St. Francis and Stokes in tomorrow night's third place game.

All of the night's action and suspense was crammed into the 45-minute opener between second-seeded Dayton, with 7-foot Bill Uhl and 6-9 Johnny Horan, and unranked St. Francis, with its 6-6 Stokes.

Stokes had Dayton on the ropes throughout, scoring 43 points and playing like a man and a half under the boards and on defense.

Despite excellent feeds by Stokes, the Frankies missed three layups and had to settle for a 67-67 tie as Dayton sub Carman Riazzi sank a set shot just before the final buzzer.

The overtime was all Dayton as Horan, who finished with 30, and Uhl, who got 20, wrapped it up.

Trabert Meets Flam

Palm Beach, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Second-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati plays third-seeded Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., today in the feature singles match of the Everglades Club Invitational tennis tournament. Trabert gained the semifinals yesterday with a 6-2, 6-0 victory over Jerry Dewitt of San Francisco while Flam had advanced earlier. Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, seeded No. 1, defeated Dr. Jack Geller of Purchase, N. Y., 7-5, 6-0, to gain the semifinals and will play Tom Brown of San Francisco tomorrow. Finals will be held Sunday.

Head Golf Action

Pinehurst, N. C., March 18 (AP)—The "Battle of the Barbaras," Romack of Sacramento, Calif., the national champion, and McIntire Oftledoan Ohio, headlined today's second round in the 53rd North and South Amateur golf tournament. Miss Romack was defending her North and South title here two years ago when their paths crossed and the Ohio girl eliminated the Californian, 2 up, in the quarterfinals.

National LL To Register

Registration for National Little League players will be held again Saturday from 9:30 until 12 o'clock noon at the Recreation Department, 97 Broadway.

Jimmy DeCicco, LL director, urged all registrants to bring birth certificates.

Palica Is Sold To Baltimore

Vero Beach, Fla., March 18 (AP)—The Dodgers today sold Erv Palica, 27-year-old righthander, to Baltimore for an undisclosed sum of cash and first baseman Frank Kellert. The latter will play for Brooklyn's St. Paul Farm Club.

The Palica sales closes out the Dodger-Oriole deal of last winter when the Brooks sold Preacher Roe and Billy Cox to Baltimore. Roe later retired and was returned to Brooklyn, which placed him on the voluntarily retired list.

LaSalle to Put NCAA Cage Crown On Line Tonight

Kansas City, March 18 (AP)—The La Salle Explorers defend their national collegiate basketball crown against Iowa's Big Ten Champion Hawkeyes tonight in the semifinal round of the 17th NCAA tournament.

Following the La Salle-Iowa opener at 8:45 o'clock (EST) the western delegates-San Francisco and Colorado—will clash.

The Municipal Auditorium Arena is assured of a bulging crowd of more than 10,000 for both the semifinals and tomorrow night's finals.

Coach Ken Loeffler's Explorers who crushed Bradley 92-76 for their first NCAA title here last year, got into the final co-round again by beating West Virginia in the first round at New York, then taking Princeton and Canisius at Philadelphia.

Gulfstream Park's 1954 attendance set a new high of 617,537 for 43 days of racing despite 14 days of rain. Officials of the course expect that figure to be topped during the current season.

ALMOST TIED—There's nothing at stake except pride, but Wes Santee (left) of the U.S. and Juan Miranda, of Argentina, go all out to produce a virtual dead heat in the first preliminary of the 1,500-meter run in Pan-American games at Mexico City, March 17. The judges decided finally that Miranda nosed out Santee, in the time of 4:06.4. The first five in each heat qualified for March 19 finals. (AP Wirephoto).

50 CLUB PRESENTS CHECK TO CP — The recent concert featuring the Male and Mixed choruses of IBM, sponsored by the 50 Club, raised $743.40, a check for which is being presented by President Francis Coughlin (second from right) to Dr. H. L. Bibby, president of Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Chapter. Observing (l-r) are Thomas Coughlin, treasurer of the 50 Club and Mrs. Charlotte Peck, clinical director at the local CP Center. At extreme right is Donald Eigo, vice president of the club. (Freeman photo)

Why We Say--

"PAINT THE TOWN RED"

This expression has been popular since about 1880. To paint at one time meant to drink. Thus, "To paint the town red," meant to drink liquor until the traditional red complexion appeared.

Two Seized at Beacon

Beacon, March 18 (AP)—March 18 (AP)—A New York city man and an ex-convict were arrested early today during what police said was an attempt to break into a tavern here. Authorities identified the pair as Ernest E. Wells, 46, of 300 West 133rd street, New York, and Furman Hobby, 35, a parolee from Greenhaven prison. Police said they were caught at 1:25 a. m. while trying to gain entrance to Lynch's Tavern. An employe became suspicious when he noted two men lurking about just before closing time and called an officer. The officer kept watch and nabbed the pair.

CD Warning Test

An audible alert test of Civil Defense warning signals will be held some time Monday between noon and 6 p. m. This is not an alert in which there will be public participation. Civil Defense personnel will not be required to participate. The test is only to test out the system equipment.

The fellow who saves his pennies finds that the parking meters and sales tax take care of them.

$15,000 Pay Roll Taken

Edgewater, N. J., March 18 (AP)—Three bandits held up two messengers of Seatrain Lines, Inc. at the point of a shotgun today and escaped in a getaway car with a $15,000 payroll, police said. The stickup occurred at the entrance to the shipping and lighterage firm at 511 River Road in a swirling snowstorm at about 8:30 a. m. The getaway car, a blue sedan reportedly stolen in New York, was found abandoned an hour later in Cliffside Park, about a two minute's drive from here.

50 CLUB PRESENTS CHECK TO CP — The recent concert featuring the Male and Mixed choruses of IBM, sponsored by the 50 Club, raised $743.40, a check for which is being presented by President Francis Coughlin (second from right) to Dr. H. L. Bibby, president of Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Chapter. Observing (l-r) are Thomas Coughlin, treasurer of the 50 Club and Mrs. Charlotte Peck, clinical director at the local CP Center. At extreme right is Donald Eigo, vice president of the club. (Freeman photo)

Why We Say--

This expression has been popular since about 1880. To paint at one time meant to drink. Thus, "To paint the town red," meant to drink liquor until the traditional red complexion appeared.

Two Seized at Beacon

Beacon, March 18 (AP)—March 18 (AP)—A New York city man and an ex-convict were arrested early today during what police said was an attempt to break into a tavern here. Authorities identified the pair as Ernest E. Wells, 46, of 300 West 133rd street, New York, and Furman Hobby, 35, a parolee from Greenhaven prison. Police said they were caught at 1:25 a. m. while trying to gain entrance to Lynch's Tavern. An employe became suspicious when he noted two men lurking about just before closing time and called an officer. The officer kept watch and nabbed the pair.

CD Warning Test

An audible alert test of Civil Defense warning signals will be held some time Monday between noon and 6 p. m. This is not an alert in which there will be public participation. Civil Defense personnel will not be required to participate. The test is only to test out the system equipment.

$15,000 Pay Roll Taken

Edgewater, N. J., March 18 (AP)—Three bandits held up two messengers of Seatrain Lines, Inc. at the point of a shotgun today and escaped in a getaway car with a $15,000 payroll, police said. The stickup occurred at the entrance to the shipping and lighterage firm at 511 River Road in a swirling snowstorm at about 8:30 a. m. The getaway car, a blue sedan reportedly stolen in New York, was found abandoned an hour later in Cliffside Park, about a two minute's drive from here.

Sheehan Speaks To Kiwanis on Veterans' Benefits

F. William Sheehan, officer in charge of the Veterans Administration contact office in Kingston, was the speaker at the regular luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday.

Sheehan outlined the work of the local VA office, which covers the five-county area of Ulster, Sullivan, Delaware, Otsego and Greene. It works under jurisdiction of the Albany regional office, which covers a 20-county region.

Touching briefly on some of the veterans benefits available to ex-servicemen, Sheehan emphasized the importance of obtaining competent advice, rather than relying upon well-meaning but uninformed advice of friends.

According to records in the Albany regional office, Ulster county has twice as many guaranteed GI loans as any other county in the 20-county jurisdiction, Sheehan said. The record on these loans is "far better than the averagee" for conventional loans, he said.

Service Authorized

Albany, March 18 (AP)—The Public Service Commission today authorized the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad to provide "piggy-back" freight service within New York state starting April 1. The operation involves transporting loaded highway trailers on rail flat cars.

Sabbath Services

Seventh Day Adventist Church Sabbath school will open at 9:30 a. m.; subject of the lesson, Faith, Stronger Than the Grave. Church services commence at 11 a. m. David Cummings will preach. Prayer meeting Wednesday night at 7:30. All are welcome.

Activity Is Higher

Albany, March 18 (AP)—The Commerce Department reports that business activity in the state in January was four per cent higher than in the first month of 1954. The department, reporting yesterday that its business index activity stood at 119 in January, 1955, said higher manufacturing production was "an important factor" in the improvement. Unemployment insurance claims dropped from 339,000 in the first week of January to 290,500 in the last week of February, the department reported. The entire decrease was in New York city.

A corrugated box is wonderful for storage, as saving women know. If you're going to use them over and over, try razoring around the top to open it to keep from getting dogeared flaps. Tape it shut for a near-airtight container.

Sheehan Speaks To Kiwanis on Veterans' Benefits

F. William Sheehan, officer in charge of the Veterans Administration contact office in Kingston, was the speaker at the regular luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday.

Sheehan outlined the work of the local VA office, which covers the five-county area of Ulster, Sullivan, Delaware, Otsego and Greene. It works under jurisdiction of the Albany regional office, which covers a 20-county region.

Touching briefly on some of the veterans benefits available to ex-servicemen, Sheehan emphasized the importance of obtaining competent advice, rather than relying upon well-meaning but uninformed advice of friends.

According to records in the Albany regional office, Ulster county has twice as many guaranteed GI loans as any other county in the 20-county jurisdiction, Sheehan said. The record on these loans is "far better than the averagee" for conventional loans, he said.

Service Authorized

Albany, March 18 (AP)—The Public Service Commission today authorized the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad to provide "piggy-back" freight service within New York state starting April 1. The operation involves transporting loaded highway trailers on rail flat cars.

Sabbath Services

Seventh Day Adventist Church Sabbath school will open at 9:30 a. m.; subject of the lesson, Faith, Stronger Than the Grave. Church services commence at 11 a. m. David Cummings will preach. Prayer meeting Wednesday night at 7:30. All are welcome.

Activity Is Higher

Albany, March 18 (AP)—The Commerce Department reports that business activity in the state in January was four per cent higher than in the first month of 1954. The department, reporting yesterday that its business index activity stood at 119 in January, 1955, said higher manufacturing production was "an important factor" in the improvement. Unemployment insurance claims dropped from 339,000 in the first week of January to 290,500 in the last week of February, the department reported. The entire decrease was in New York city.

A corrugated box is wonderful for storage, as saving women know. If you're going to use them over and over, try razoring around the top to open it to keep from getting dogeared flaps. Tape it shut for a near-airtight container.
